Rights Leaders Plan 3 Marches In Chicago Today

CHICAGO (AP) — Civil rights leaders announced Saturday night they will demonstrate simultaneously Sunday in three all-white neighborhoods in which realtors allegedly discriminate against Negroes in the sale and rental of property.

Two of the neighborhoods are on the southwest side and the other on the northwest side.

A spokesman at the marchers' headquarters at the Mount Hope Baptist Church said marchers will demonstrate in the Bogan, Gage Park-Chicago Lawn and Jefferson Park neighborhoods.

Details on the marches were to be announced late Sunday morning or early afternoon.

Repeat Visits
Two of the neighborhoods, Bogan and Gage Park-Chicago Lawn have been visited by marchers in recent weeks.

The Jefferson Park neighborhood, on the Northwest Side, is much the same as that of the other areas in which demonstrations are to be held; bungalows and small apartment buildings line well-kept, tree-shaded streets.

The triple demonstration was proposed at a strategy meeting after a relatively tame march by some 500 white persons and Negroes Friday in the Bogan area.

The march into the all-white neighborhood Friday was expected to produce a violent reaction by white residents, but it caused little more than jeers and a few showers of rocks.

Some 600 policemen kept 1,000 white onlookers in hand.

Many Arrests
The demonstrators have been marching for three weeks under police protection into three all-white neighborhoods—Chicago Lawn, Belmont-Cragin and Friday's target, Bogan. Scores of white hecklers have been arrested and several persons have been injured.

Simultaneous marches is a novel strategy in the Chicago rights movement.

The Chicago-Freedom Movement Action Committee announced Saturday it had filed 74 complaints of alleged discrimination by real estate brokers on the South Side against Negroes. The committee filed its complaints with the Illinois Department of Registration and Education, which licenses the brokers, and the Chicago Commission on Human Relations, which has jurisdiction over the city's open-housing law.

The committee said the complaints were based on visits white persons had made to the brokers in quest of homes. The complaints alleged that white persons were given information on rentals, but Negroes "were refused service."

Dr. Martin Luther King is expected to attend a meeting in Chicago Wednesday with executives of the Chicago Real Estate Board and religious, civic, political and labor leaders.

Edwin C. Berry, executive director of the Chicago Urban League, said King was elated when told in Jackson, Miss., where he has been attending the annual convention of his Southern Christian Leadership Conference, that the Wednesday discussions had been agreed to by Ross J. Beatty, real estate board president, and the board's executive committee members.

More Police
One of the civil rights leaders, the Rev. James Bevel, said that while the Bogan demonstration appeared comparatively peaceful, "there wasn't less animosity in Bogan, just 1,000 more police."

Bevel said Bogan residents were hostile to open housing and that police protection held any incidents to a minimum.

Police Cmdr. Martin O'Connell said that there were only a few incidents and little opposition from residents of the Bogan area because civic and church organizations had worked for the last 10 days to get people to refrain from any violent opposition to the demonstrations.

Torrential Rains Flood Several Sections Of U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Torrential rains in parts of the East, Midwest and South sent floodwaters swirling Saturday in North Carolina, Nebraska, Arkansas and Texas.

Rains of a foot or more drenched central Nebraska's Loup River Basin. Normally placid streams pushed out of their banks forcing evacuations and stranding some residents and motorists.

The entire business district of St. Edward, on Beaver Creek in Nebraska, was flooded and a dozen families were evacuated. A National Guard helicopter went to the rescue of three men stranded on the roof of a hydro-electric plant in Fullerton, Neb. Two other men were reported stranded in trees nearby. Volunteer firemen rescued a motorist near Wolbach, Neb., after his car was washed off the road. A dam above Fullerton was washed out.

Gov. Frank Morrison, accompanied by National Guard officials, made an aerial inspection of the flooded area, about 100 miles west of Omaha.

65 Stranded
About 65 motorists were stranded by flooding waters after nearly 9 inches of rain deluged the Ashboro, N.C., area. All were rescued. Two youths in a boat rescued a woman motorist who climbed to the top of her submerged car, shouted for help and then fell into the water Friday night.

Rains up to a foot fell on the ranching country northwest of San Antonio, Tex., and the Weather Bureau issued flash flood warnings. Nine inches of rain were recorded in Leakey, 80 miles west of San Antonio. Jessups Ranch reported 12 inches.

The Nueces River in Camp Wood, Tex., had risen 10 feet Saturday.

Nearly 7 inches of rain fell in Little Rock, Ark. in 12 hours and minor flooding was reported.

Showers and thundershowers broke out Saturday from the Mississippi Valley and the Southern plains across the lower Ohio Valley and the Southeast. Showers also occurred over the Pacific Northwest.

Skies were mostly sunny from the mid and south Pacific coast to the south and central Rockies and from the eastern Great Lakes to the Northeast states.

CHICAGO BOY WOUNDED IN RIOTS DIES

CHICAGO (AP) — A 13-year-old boy who was wounded July 15 during rioting on the West Side died Saturday in Mt. Sinai Hospital.

Police said the boy, Walter Hawkins, was shot by a sniper as he was standing on a street near some police officers. Police, who were unable to find the gunman, said he probably was trying to shoot the policeman.

A bullet struck the boy in the abdomen.

Two other persons, both Negroes, were shot and killed during the rioting.

Mao's New Policies Win Party Approval

TOKYO (AP)—Chinese Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung has won complete vindication for his tough policies at home and abroad in a 12-day appearance before a full-dress session of the ruling Communist party Central Committee.

Assailed by domestic enemies, denounced by the Soviet Union and criticized by Asian Communists for refusing to forge a united front with the Russians to fight against the United States in Viet Nam, the Mao, 72, got a warm welcome from the first plenary committee session held in four years.

The committee endorsed his vow to back the Communists "in fighting to the end until final victory" in Viet Nam.

Sitting in Peking from Aug. 1 until Friday, the committee issued a communique Saturday night which said: "The plenary session fully approves the series of brilliant policies of decisive and fundamental importance put forward by Comrade Mao Tse-tung over the past four years."

The committee disclosed that the often-postponed third five-year plan is under way at last and said in a confident vein that "an invigorating revolutionary atmosphere prevails in the whole country, and the situation is one of a new all-round leap forward emerging."

The secret plenary session—the 11th of the Eighth Central Committee since it was elected in September 1956 and the first since September 1962—posed as many questions as it answered. Its failure to announce any important new policies and refusal to list who else was present suggested that much of its time had been devoted to an examination of Mao's old policies and ways to implement the new ones, including the nationwide purge now under way.

It was not known, from the communique, whether any of Mao's enemies in the Politburo or the Central Committee who had been disgraced were in their seats. They include Deputy Premier and Former Chief of Staff Lo Jui-ching and Minister of Propaganda Lu Ting-yi, both named to their posts by the 1962 plenary session, and Mayor Peng Chen of Peking, a member of the powerful Politburo.

Next in Line?
Only one name besides Mao's was listed in the communique, that of Marshall Lin Biao, minister of defense and now possibly the next most powerful man in the nation. He was praised for calling on the army to study Mao's works and for his analysis of people's wars in 1963. As the man in charge of the army purge, he now ranks slightly above Chen Po-ta, who heads the civilian purge, among Mao's lieutenants.

Apart from saying that the five-year plan had begun this year, the committee gave no details either of its performance so far or of its objectives. It said industry was humming and there had been four good harvests since 1962.

In San Antonio, Tex., President Johnson's diplomatic and intelligence officers advised him the Red Chinese communique contained little new information.

The advisers felt the communique was nothing more than a reaffirmation of domestic and foreign policies expounded at length during the past year.

On foreign issues, Johnson's advisers reported, the communique broke no new ground.

CLoudy SKIES COVER ILLINOIS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Pleasant summer weather, consisting of temperatures in the 70s and cloudy skies, spread across much of Illinois Saturday.

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecast temperatures in the 70s again for Sunday across the state.

Residents in the northern sections were told to look for occasional showers and possibly thundershowers tomorrow. Showers and thundershowers were forecast for Southern Illinois.

Ulbricht Taunts West For Inaction On 'Wall'

BERLIN (AP)—East German Communist party leader Walter Ulbricht taunted the west Saturday for its inaction when the Berlin wall was built five years ago.

Amid Prussian-style pomp and Communist propaganda, Ulbricht's regime took the occasion of the anniversary of the wall to celebrate publicly for the first time the erection of the midcity barrier that in the West is seen as a harsh and ugly expression of Communist fulfillment.

Boasts
In a 40-minute address before reviewing a parade of thousands of steel-helmeted paramilitary workers—battle groups—who helped build the wall, Ulbricht boasted that the wall had saved the face of alleged planned, West Brandenburg Gate.

Union Reportedly Kills Agreement Ending Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz disclosed Saturday night that agreement apparently reached Friday in the 36-day-old airline strike, but the striking machinists later torpedoed it.

Wirtz said the airlines and the union at first apparently agreed on a package that would have cost the airlines an estimated $84 million over three years, but the union later backed out of it.

A spokesman for Siemiller issued this statement in behalf of the union:

"No one is more eager for a fair settlement of the airlines strike than the union."

"Last night a subcommittee of union negotiators met with a subcommittee for the carriers. We found they had not even been informed of our position. The meeting ended with no agreement."

Surprised
"This afternoon when we arrived at the Labor Department, we learned that the carriers had come to sign a package settlement they thought we had agreed to. We don't even know what was in it.

"We hope everyone will read the union's statement of this afternoon and judge for themselves. It represents the facts as we know them."

Asked if union negotiators would go to a meeting called by Wirtz on Sunday, the spokesman said, "We'll be there. We're still trying to settle this dispute."

Wirtz' statement followed within hours a report that union negotiators stormed out of a meeting Saturday with the labor secretary.

Meeting Halted
Wirtz said a joint meeting Saturday "was abruptly terminated, shortly after it started, when Mr. (Roy) Siemiller (union president) withdrew from it, taking his bargaining committee with him, on the ground—which has no basis in fact—that one of the carrier representatives had reflected on his integrity."

Wirtz' statement gave this account of the events:

"There has been an intensive series of meetings with the parties during the past three days. 'Yesterday agreement was apparently reached.'"

"The union had presented its revised demands in the form of a 'package' covering wage, fringe, and cost-of-living escalator issues with a value of approximately $94 million over a three-year period for the five companies."

Wirtz said Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds, in a series of meetings with both parties, "obtained what appeared to be the agreement of both of them to a package covering all of these same items, but with some modifications in their terms."

Airlines Agree
"This package would have a value of about $84 million over the three-year period. The airline companies agreed to this on the understanding—communicated through Secretary Reynolds on the basis of IAM (International Association of Machinists) president Siemiller's statements to him—that the union had also accepted it."

But, Wirtz said that when Reynolds brought representatives of both sides together later to complete the details "the union rejected the terms and reverted to its $94 million position." Siemiller was not at the meeting.

Wirtz said, however, that "every effort will still be made to resolve this case by mutual agreement," and he called a meeting of both sides for Sunday morning.

A Labor Department spokesman said there was no consultation with the White House prior to the issuance of Wirtz' statement.

Fair Basis
Wirtz said "there is the basis here for a settlement which is fair to both parties."

Word of the flareup at the Labor Department came shortly after Siemiller had released a statement accusing the airlines of hiding behind White House wage-price guidelines to protect what he called exorbitant profits.

The two developments dimmed still further the already

U.S. Troop Strength In Viet Swells To 291,000

SAIGON, Sunday (AP)—More than 3,000 fresh American troops, the new 196th U.S. Light Infantry Brigade, disembarked at the coastal port of Vung Tau southeast of Saigon Saturday. Their arrival raised to 291,000 the total of American troops in Viet Nam, U.S. military authorities said. They will be based at Tay Ninh, a province northwest of Saigon on the Cambodian border.

U.S. officials have announced a prospective buildup to 400,000 U.S. troops by the end of the year.

The unit, first light infantry brigade in U.S. military history, was activated at Fort Devens Sept. 15, 1965. About half the troops were inexperienced when they began training.

Report Battle
As they stepped ashore at the port southwest of Saigon, Vietnamese sources reported a sharp battle with the enemy far to the north. They said Vietnamese Marines fought the Communist force Saturday some 345 miles northeast of Saigon and killed an estimated 300 of the enemy.

The battle scene was near Que Son in Quang Tin Province, where U.S. and Vietnamese marines have been on a joint operation for eight days.

There was no immediate report that U.S. Marines were engaged in Saturday's battle.

U.S. sources said Saturday that Communist losses in the operation, code name Colorado, had reached 514 dead and 49 captured, but apparently this did not include the new Vietnamese kill.

American briefing officers in giving the 514 figure, a sharp increase from Friday's total, said the rise was due to late Vietnamese reports, but they made no mention of Saturday's engagement near Que Son.

The report of the sharp fire fight on the ground came as U.S. squadrons rounded a week of widespread raids on North Viet Nam which cost a record high of 13 planes. The latest American losses were two planes Friday.

Ground action elsewhere was reported slack.

Kill 25 Cong
In the Mekong Delta, a Vietnamese militiaman met a Viet Cong force Saturday almost at the tip of South Viet Nam and killed 25 of the enemy, government sources said. The encounter was 10 miles east of Ca Mau in an Xuyen Province.

With the air war getting tougher, experienced U.S. pilots termed enemy flak being thrown at them the heaviest of any war.

"There seems to be a machine gun behind every tree," an Air Force spokesman remarked in reporting on plus and minus phases of 121 missions flown by Air Force and Navy pilots over the north Friday.

In a broadcast unconfirmed here, Hanoi's Viet Nam news agency declared two more planes—a jet fighter and a reconnaissance craft—were shot down Saturday. A separate dispatch charged Americans bombed a Catholic hamlet and a dike section on the outskirts of Hanoi, causing "many losses in lives and property."

In Saigon, a mine exploded

LBJ Told Chinese Are Mending Fences

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson got swift assurances Saturday that Red China is trying now to counter indications of high-level disarray rather than attempting to break new foreign policy ground.

This was the way diplomatic and intelligence experts in Washington sized up a communique issued in Peking on Friday night by the ruling Communist party's Central Committee at the close of its first plenary session in four years.

The analysis from Washington reached Johnson about 6:30 a.m. White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said the President already was awake out at the LBJ Ranch near Johnson City, Tex.

Fill 4 Spots
The President and Mrs. Johnson are spending the weekend there.

In the work line Saturday was the filling of four diplomatic spots abroad, including the naming of a career woman in the Foreign Service, Miss Carol C. Laise, 48, to be ambassador to Nepal, the little land tucked strategically between India and Red China.

The Saturday night communique from Red China gave Communist party Chairman

Mao Tse-tung and his domestic and foreign policies a strong vote of confidence. This applied to Mao's pledges to support Communists in fighting on to final victory in Viet Nam and to attacks on the Soviet Union and its basic doctrines.

The way diplomatic and intelligence officers summed all this up for the President was that: "Chinese communique breaks no new ground. According to all our experts, the communique is little but a reaffirmation of domestic and foreign policy lines expounded at length over the past year."

"It is another obvious attempt to give the impression that the entire party leadership is united by Mao and to counter the numerous recent indications of high-level disarray."

"On foreign policy issues, the communique breaks no new ground. On Chinese aid to Viet Nam it employs general and unspecific language, merely endorsing 'all the measures already taken and all the action to

Chance, Not Choice, Will Shorten Fall Campaigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is about to accomplish by indirect action what it probably would never do by legislation—an effective shortening of the fall general election campaign.

A combination of factors has reversed the usual burning desire of members to get back to the hustings for some intensive vote solicitation immediately after Labor Day.

Only 3 Weeks
It now seems Congress will be around Washington at least until Oct. 15. This would leave only about three weeks for members to devote full time to campaigning before the Nov. 8 election to fill all 435 house and 35 senate seats.

Of course, some members dash home every weekend to get in a few political ticks. But the majority seems well content to stick around Washington and tend to legislative business rather than to go home to discuss the issues with the voters.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who isn't running this year, entertains the active suspicion that some of the members don't really want to go home at this point.

Voters Irritated
As he explained it in an interview, all signs indicate that the electorate is in an irritable mood. He listed the Viet Nam war, inflation and big-city rioting as major factors in this discontent.

"It isn't easy for a candidate to explain any of these issues," he said. "There are questions that he can't answer and which he would rather not be asked. There aren't so many questions when you stay on the job in Washington."

Dirksen, who has offered to bet the Republicans pick up 50 or more House seats, is convinced that public unrest will contribute to some such result. Democratic strategists dispute his figures, but not many of them argue with his analysis of the trend.

On the other hand, President Johnson obviously believes in the vote-getting power of his domestic Great Society programs. He is advising party candidates to talk about what these programs have done for the voters and what they promise in the future.

Although Johnson has had some setbacks in Congress, the longer the lawmakers stay around Washington the more new programs are likely to come into existence.

With the uproar over Viet Nam police, tapering off at the Capitol, the White House seems content for Congress to remain on the job until the frost is on the pumpkin.

Uncle Sam Helps Eskimos, Indians Get Job Training

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Minnie Trader wants to be a beautician. So do lots of other girls, but Minnie has a special problem: There aren't any beauty schools in Emagkak. So she is going to one in Chicago. And that's where the Seattle Orientation Center of the U.S. Bureau of Indian Affairs comes in.

Minnie, 25, who grew up in an Eskimo village on the Kuskokwim River in western Alaska, is one of about 750 Eskimos, Alutians and Indians from the 40th state who have passed through the center since it was founded three years ago.

Like the others, she is getting a helping hand from Uncle Sam under a program designed to provide Alaska natives and Indians with jobs and training to keep them off welfare rolls.

Ease Transition

The Seattle center, housed in seven units of a motel, was established to ease the transition from village to city life for the Alaskans. Many of them have never ridden a bus, used a telephone, shopped in a supermarket or made a budget. On arrival here, they are given an allowance—$25 a week for single persons and a little more for families — and left to do their own budgeting. The bureau pays their rent.

Mrs. Jimmie Owens, a transplanted Texan who heads the center, periodically gives them assignments which require them to take buses to designated locations, shop for specific items and report back by telephone. They also visit factories, libraries and other institutions.

At group counseling sessions, in the dinette of the headquarters motel unit, the problems they encounter are thrashed out. After they finish here, the Alaskans go on to vocational schools or training jobs in other parts of the United States.

"Don't sell our students short because they don't know some simple things," says Mrs. Owens. "How would you make out if someone plunked you down in the middle of Beaver, Alaska, and told you to make it on your own? It would be a rough go."

Mrs. Owens knows what she is talking about. She has visited 19 native villages in Alaska since coming here from Dallas, where she was an employment officer for the bureau. To prepare for her assignment, she got a crash course from a team of psychiatrists, psychologists and social workers.

She and her assistant, social worker David Harley, say 5 to 8 per cent of those who come to the center return to Alaska without completing the course. Some have drinking problems. Some withdraw into themselves and refuse to speak. One became so depressed he wouldn't eat.

Mrs. Owens estimates that more than 200 young natives leave Alaska permanently each year.

"Alaska needs trained people," she says. "We try to get them into things that they can use if they go back, and we encourage them to go back."

For example, the Distant Early Warning stations in Alaska were once manned entirely by workers from what Alaskans call "the lower 48." Now many of them are manned by natives.

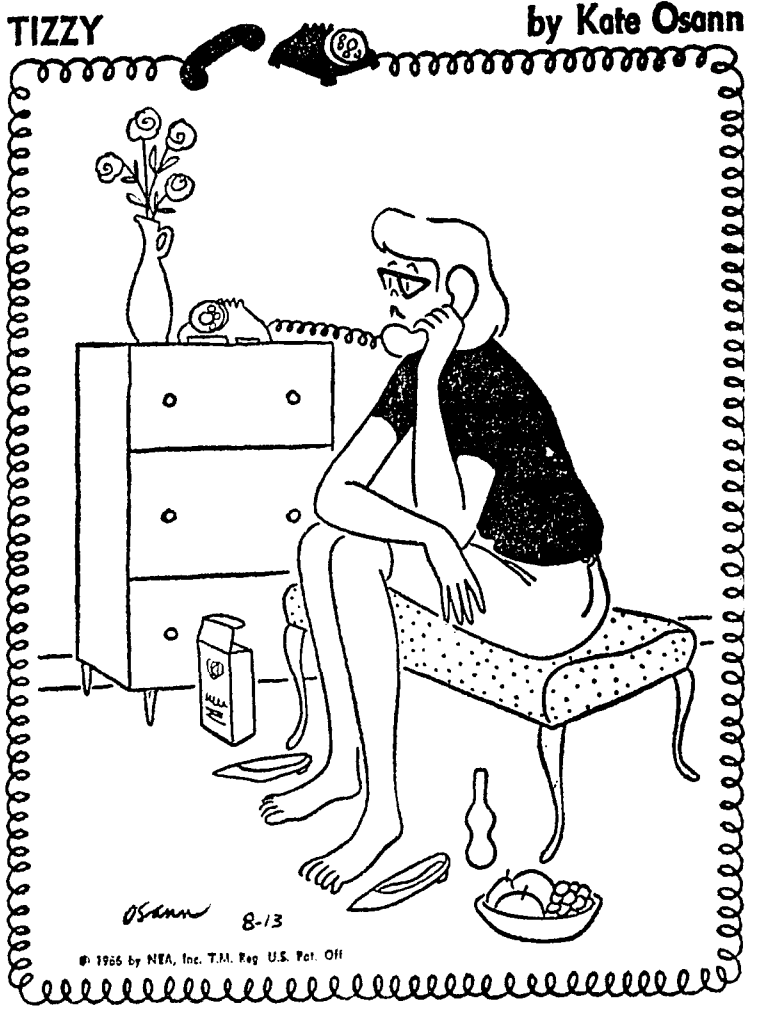

Ignati Jacob, an Eskimo from Napaikak, signed up for the training program which he hopes will give him a trade as a welder.

"I just got tired of lying around," said Ignate.

About half of the enrollees are single men, a quarter young women and another quarter men with families.

The course here takes about six weeks, but varies according to how well the student is doing. Once, for instance, a young man about to ship out for Chicago got lost on an assignment and walked almost all night before he got back to the motel.

"We called Chicago and said he thought he had better stay a couple of more weeks," says Mrs. Owens.

"My father wants me to go on a telephone diet!"

The Ladies' Aid has sent a donation to the Concordia Tract Mission of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, to help produce sets of colored Bible story pictures for mass distribution by overseas missionaries, who may also use the reverse side of the pictures for printing a Gospel message in the language of the people with whom they are working.

Prayer by Pastor Welch, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison, closed the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Houston, Miss Mary Ann Lovekamp, and Miss Judy Curry of Rushville returned recently from a vacation trip in the eastern states. SHIFT INTO HIGH GEAR by mixing but not matching. The summer squint problem can be handled effectively, if not giddily, by borrowing from Op art. Smashing is this season's most dramatic black and white-checked (left) or striped sunglasses (right). For the unmatched, but chic, plunge into the dizzying effect of polka dots, checks and stripes all at once.

THE CAMEL SUIT, a natural for back-to-school wardrobes (left) has a new, longer double-breasted jacket and eased skirt. The back shows off a sliver of belt. Seven-eighths length coat (right), inspired by Austrian Alpine coats, has embroidered pockets, single-breasted brass-buttoned closing and piped standing collar in bright red or green melon.

MT. STERLING MAN RETURNS TO JAPAN

MT. STERLING — Terry Meats, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Meats of Mt. Sterling, left Saturday for Japan, where he is a teacher to children of service men. He is going by way of Vancouver, and will leave the states on Wednesday, Aug. 16 and will arrive at the International Airport in Tokyo, on Thursday, the 17th. He will remain in Japan until next June.

Mrs. Perle Fry of Mt. Sterling was admitted as a patient in the Schmitt Memorial hospital in Beardstown.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Armstrong and daughters returned home after spending a week's vacation in the Ozarks.

THE KEY to a budget-saving, round-the-clock summer wardrobe lies in mix-and-match co-ordinates such as these print and solid combinations. Trim, low-slung Garrison pants (left) in summer twill team up with a barrel-cuffed Western shirt in printed voile. For evening discotheque hopping the bare, printed voile tank top (right) tops a hip-high belt above a film of sheer white-pleated voile. These summer coolers are from Sportempos, Inc.

HAIR SPRAY is not only for hair holding. It's meant for setting, too. If, after a day at the beach, a quick change is needed for coifs that droop in spots, here is the spray solution. Set down-hearted locks completely dry with brush rollers. Spray these curls and wait 15 minutes. Quick and vigorous brushing makes the curls unfurl. Convenient, too, is the small travel-size hair spray to fit in beach totes and in luggage.

The Sept. meeting will be a carry in luncheon at the church at 12 Noon.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market averages and statistics took another sharp tumble last week but in the midst of it many of the glamor stocks made sharp gains.

Analysts said the market was really two markets, possibly more, depending on how many divisions you wanted to make. Generally, however, the market consisted of falling Blue Chips and rising glamor stocks.

Among them were the familiar color television, electronics, office equipment and other high flyers which were the leaders early this year.

For example, Fairchild Camera soared 24 1/2 points to 202 1/2; Magnavox rose 6 1/2, Raytheon 6 1/2, E. I. du Pont 3 1/2, and General Instrument 5 1/2.

General Motors, meanwhile, sank 3 points to 78 1/2. It, along with Ford and Chrysler, made new lows.

GM traditionally has been regarded as a market weather-vane, pointing the direction in which the market is going.

American Telephone, the most widely owned of all stocks, declined 1/2 to 53.

The Dow Industrials last week lost 11 1/2 to 840.53.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 5.3 to 302.3.

For the market was represented by the averages and by advance-decline figures, it was four straight days of loss this week, capped by a rally on the last day. Of 1,554 issues traded, 889 fell and 500 rose.

Volume was 23,411,250 shares compared with 20,226,760 the previous week.

Faltering efforts to end the airline strike, combined with continued worry about Viet Nam, tight money and inflation, depressed the market most of the week.

Bond prices continued to decline to new postwar lows as the August corporate calendar approached a near record volume of financing. Government bonds sold off for the third consecutive week.

Roche, Sillwell Reach Finals In Grass Court Meet

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP)—First seeded Tony Roche of Australia, winner of the Eastern Grass Court tennis title this year, and Graham Sillwell, of England, who is in his first major tournament, won semifinal matches Saturday in the Meadow Club Grass Court Tennis Tournament.

Roche, who won the French, Italian and Mexican titles while touring the world, defeated fourth seeded Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1.

Sillwell, a 5-8, 162-pound surprise package, who is a junior member of England's Davis Cup squad, beat the tournament's other upset maker, Alan Stone, of Australia, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4, after Stone led 5-2 in the second set.

In the doubles semifinals, the Australian team of Davidson and Bill Bowrey defeated Jim Osborne of Hawaii and Scott, 6-4, 6-3 and the English team of Sillwell and Mark Cox eliminated Smith and Bob Lutz of Los Angeles 8-6, 6-3.

Strike

fight hope for reaching a voluntary agreement before Congress acts on legislation to force the 35,000 strikers back to their jobs.

Siemiller's statement came after reports that latest federal efforts to get the two sides back to the bargaining table had failed.

"These airlines make a great pretense of defending the nation against inflation," Siemiller said in a statement.

"They pretend to defend nothing but their own inflated profits," said the leader of the 35,000 striking mechanics.

The reported failure of any new bargaining efforts indicated the five airlines — United, Eastern, National, Northwest and Trans World — still are standing pat on their latest offer rejected by the Machinists, waiting to see what Congress will do.

A bill under which Congress would order the strikers back to work for 30 days and President Johnson would be authorized to keep them there an additional 150 days is expected to reach the House floor sometime next week, perhaps as early as Tuesday.

No Rush

However, the House has been in no big rush to consider legislation to halt the 36-day walkout and the prospect is for extended debate before any final action on a bill almost identical with one already passed by the Senate.

Siemiller charged that the airlines are deliberately delaying their profit reports for the first six months of this year and demanded that the Civil Aeronautics Board order the reports made immediately.

The airlines' latest contract offer, negotiated under White House urging, would have provided an estimated increase of 72 cents per hour in wages and fringes over a three-year contract.

Top mechanics now earn $3.52 per hour plus fringe benefits that bring the total to around $4.

The White House proposal turned down by the strikers in an overwhelming vote has been estimated at some six per cent or more per year increases.

This is approximately double the White House wage guideline of 3.2 per cent, designed to curb inflation.

The W.I.U. returning lettermen are: Jerry Albright (Knoxville); John Berry (Chicago); Billy Brockhouse (Winchester); Bill Deetler (Chicago); Bill Dudley (Riverside); Tim Hart (Chicago Heights); Bill Henderson (Pittsfield).

Western Illinois University will open the 1966 football season at Macomb on Saturday, September 17th in a non-conference game against Northeast Missouri State of Kirksville.

Kickoff time is scheduled for 8:00 p.m. Last year the Bulldogs defeated W.I.U. 34-21.

Named to help in the kitchen are Lavena Lane, Mildred Kennedy, Thelma Eichenauer and Velma Pearn.

Instead of the auction sale, usually held, there will be a White Elephant Sale at Aman's Store. Items of jewelry, dishes, linens, pictures, lamps, and glassware are wanted.

For entertainment there will be a carnival and a street dance. Prizes to be given away are a set of two tires, AF and AM radio, bicycle, electric fan and a chaise longue.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP)—Butcher hog prices fluctuated rather narrowly last week and prices closed fully steady with a week earlier in some instances 25 cents higher.

The supply of 20,500 head was the largest in six weeks. Prices topped at $27 on Monday and Friday.

The estimated price of $26.10 for all offerings was the highest since early March. It compared with $25.96 the previous week and $24.92 a year ago.

Spring slaughter lambs closed steady to 50 cents higher, the sixth consecutive week the market had been steady or better.

The average price of slaughter steers for the week was estimated at $25.65 compared with $25.24 last week and $26.83 a year ago. The top of $27.50, paid on Monday was the highest since June 13.

within the home of a South Vietnamese navy officer a block from Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's office. Police informants said they believed the officer was a Viet Cong agent and had touched off the blast accidentally in fusing it for a terrorist attack somewhere in the city. He was hospitalized under guard.

Ky predicted on his return from a three-day visit to the Philippines that Hanoi would accept defeat within the next two or three years, or "maybe even earlier." He reiterated a statement he had made in Manila that a partial withdrawal of U.S. troops could be made within two years.

"We have made a lot of progress militarily, economically and politically in the last 14 months," Ky said. "If we can continue this progress, I believe we will be strong enough to defend ourselves."

Aerial campaigning held top spots in the day's briefings on war developments on both sides of the border.

Two MIG-17 fighters and an Air Force F105 Thunderchief were damaged in a dogfight over the north Friday, and missile crews fired half a dozen of their Soviet-built weapons, but the Communist ground gunners remained the greatest menace to the American raiders.

Ground Fire

The U.S. military command announced that ground fire had downed a Thunderchief fighter-bomber and an RF101 Voodoo reconnaissance jet and that the crews of both were missing.

These were the 12th and 13th such plane losses of the week. The previous high was 11, downed in the week of July 17.

The roll of U.S. aircraft announced as lost north of the border rose to 334.

The North Vietnamese, who habitually claim three or four times the numbers officially disclosed in Saigon, broadcast a report that they had shot down six planes Friday and captured "several air pirates."

American pilots said they had inflicted heavy damage on two missile launching sites and bombed and strafed two others.

Two storage areas 13 miles northeast of Haiphong and near Quang Khe, about 60 miles north of the border, were among other targets. Pilots said they had set numerous fires in both.

The dogfight erupted as a flight of Thunderchiefs flew cover for one of the downed pilots about 45 miles northwest of Hanoi.

As detailed by a spokesman, the two MIGs, the first enemy fighters sighted aloft by Americans in 19 days, opened up from the rear on Thunderchiefs piloted by Col. Aaron J. Bowman of Madras, Ore., and Capt. Richard E. Steere of Inglewood, Calif.

Plane Damaged

Steere's plane was nicked and suffered some minor damage on the first MIG pass. But he got angle shots at the MIG, which was chasing him, and scored some hits. Capt. Norman L. Wells of Onondaga, N.Y., shelled away bits of the left wing of the MIG that was after Bowman.

Both the enemy fighters dived and sped away.

Among operations south of the border:

A platoon of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division captured 16 young North Vietnamese regulars only a few yards from the Cambodian frontier after three helicopters had frozen them into immobility with machinegun bursts. The prisoners, identifying themselves as troops of Hanoi's 320th Division, said they had been detailed to get rice and medicine from a supply base in Cambodia for their unit, "understrength and underfed."

Wipe Out Platoon

Two U.S. Army helicopter gunships were reported to have wiped out a platoon of 30 or 40 Viet Cong they had caught in a line of trees near the coast north of Nha Trang. A South Korean observer said only three of the enemy had emerged after the attack and a Korean squad killed them.

More than 1,000 Communists are now listed as killed in two current allied sweeps. A spokesman said U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops in the week-old Operation Colorado centered 35 miles south of Da Nang, had killed 514 and captured 49. Operation Paul Revere II, a drive by U.S. Korean and South Vietnamese troops in the central highlands, listed 532 North Vietnamese dead over the last two weeks.

U.S. Marine and Air Force jets pounced on a detachment of Communists they had spotted in the open 22 miles southwest of Hue, and a spokesman said they had killed 37.

Official sources said the van-guard of the 2,000 troops being committed by the Philippines to Viet Nam will arrive in Saigon Tuesday.

Cambodia Had Broken in May 1965

The mercurial chief of state cited a U.S. air bombardment of the border village of Thlok Trach, claimed by Cambodia, which U.S. authorities said showed up on their maps as a Viet Nam. He also complained that Washington had referred to his people as ethnically Cambodian instead of Khmer. The Khmers make up the native race of Cambodia.

There were war-related developments in Europe.

U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler told the Soviet Foreign Ministry in Moscow that American warplanes never had fired on a Soviet ship that the Russians said had been damaged by large-caliber bullets while moored at Haiphong Aug. 2.

Kohler said that, if the ship was in fact damaged, the most probable explanation was fallout from extensive anti-aircraft fire by the North Vietnamese.

In Budapest, Hungary, Danish Foreign Minister Per Hækkerup said his government had suggested to the Soviet Union and Hungary that they undertake efforts aimed at halting military operations on the Communist side.

Addressing a news conference, he said Denmark also had told the United States it "should stop further escalation of war operations and accept the Viet Cong as a negotiating partner in future talks."

TOKYO (AP)—North Viet Nam charged that American planes "intruded into the air space of Hanoi" on Saturday and bombed a populated area and a section of the Red River Valley dikes on the capital's outskirts, causing "many losses in lives and property."

Broadcasts of Hanoi's Viet Nam News Agency relayed the charge, along with a declaration that the North Vietnamese shot down two more American planes Saturday. It said these were a jet fighter and a reconnaissance craft.

There was neither confirmation nor immediate comment from U.S. authorities in Saigon. As for the bombing, however, the North Vietnamese have been making such charges for several weeks without independent substantiation from any source. U.S. officials have said repeatedly they had no knowledge of such raids.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Orlando Cepeda, who had been benched because of a hitting slump, clubbed a three-run homer in the first inning, sending the St. Louis Cardinals on their way to a 9-6 victory over the New York Mets Saturday.

Redlegs End Pirate String At 4, 11-0

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati erupted for eight runs in the fifth inning and Jim Maloney hurled a two-hitter as the Reds walloped the Pittsburgh Pirates 11-0 Saturday in a game called at the end of five innings because of rain.

The shutout, first over the National League-leading Pirates, since June 15, when they lost 1-0 to St. Louis, ended their winning string at four games.

The Reds sent 11 batters to the plate in the fifth inning. Vada Pinson, Pete Rose and Leo Cardenas knocked in two runs apiece and Tommy Helms

Gunderson Cops Ladies Golf Title

SEWICKLEY, Pa. (AP)—Scrambling JoAnne Gunderson Carner of Seattle, Wash., fought back after a shaky start Saturday, then outlasted Marlene Stewart Streit to win the USGA National Women's Amateur Golf Championship for the fourth time on the fifth hole of a sudden death playoff.

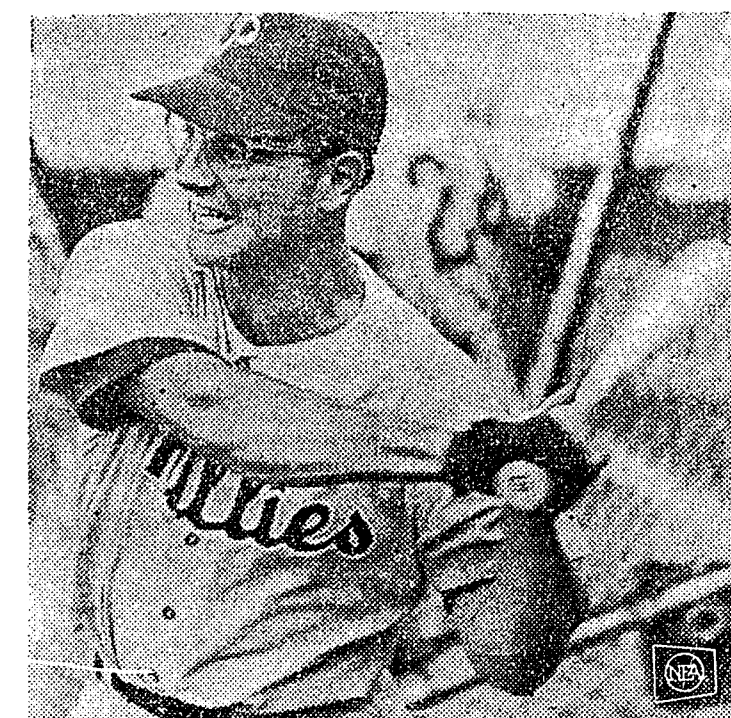

Mrs. Carner sank a two-foot putt to par the 41st hole and close out the match. Mrs. Streit took a bogey on the hole when her second shot from the rough struck a tree and glanced into a trap.

Mrs. Carner, who twice blew 3-up leads, evened the match at the 35th hole with a par when Mrs. Streit three putted from 32 feet for a bogey.

Mrs. Carner's booming drives constantly put her 20 to 40 yards beyond Mrs. Streit, a 32-year-old housewife from Willowdale, Ont. Mrs. Carner also turned in some of the best putting she displayed all week in adding the crown to those she won in 1957, 1960 and 1962.

Mrs. Carner had regulation rounds of 78-76 Saturday and Mrs. Streit shot 74-77.

Kording To Coach At Routt

The athletic program at Routt-Our Saviour's got a boost this week with the addition to the coaching staff of George W. "Willy" Kording Jr., of 288 Sandusky. Kording, currently employed at the Illinois Braille and Sight-Saving School, will coach the grade school basketball squad from November through February.

Kording, who graduated from Tallula High School in 1960, was a 4 letter-man at Illinois College in basketball and baseball, serving as captain of the basketball team and co-captain of the baseball line. He is a member of Sigma Pi society for men and was formerly president of Gardner Hall on the west-side campus. He graduated in 1960 with a bachelor's degree in history.

Last April, Kording secured his master's degree in rehabilitation of the blind from Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo, Michigan.

What's the penalty when a golfer drops all 14 clubs in a hazard?

Arnold Palmer found out the wet way Saturday during the third round of the Thunderbird Classic.

Palmer's second shot on the 440-yard, par 4 12th hole almost hit the green, then kicked into nearby water.

Before dropping a new ball, Palmer tossed it to his caddy, Steve Accolla. "Catch it, Steve," he said.

"I didn't want to catch it for fear of causing him a penalty," said Accolla. As he ducked, ball, bag, clubs and Accolla all went into the water.

"We went through a five-minute drying out process," said Palmer.

Did he help fish the caddy out? "I wanted to push him in further," Palmer grinned.

"He was nice about it," said Accolla, a receiving supervisor in a chemical plant when he's not caddying.

Trading Gilchrist: A Must For Denver

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP)—There is virtually no chance that fullback Conk Kilchrist will play for the Denver Broncos this season. But he could be a vital asset.

The way the situation now stands the Broncos must trade Kilchrist off the reserve list by Tuesday or they cannot use him this season. However, they can trade him at any time, even if the Tuesday deadline passes.

Asked what the chances were that the 250-pound fullback who in four American Football League seasons never has gained less than 900 yards on the ground, Coach Mac Speedie said sharply: "Nil. No one in our organization has heard from him. We don't even know what state or what country he's in. What we would like to do is trade him, but we won't trade him just to trade him."

The Broncos are trying to trade him for offensive or defensive linemen, and if they can accomplish that they apparently feel Kilchrist will have served his purpose.

Right now Denver is extremely short on linemen. All-League tackle Eldon Danenhauer has been lost for the season with a broken arm, and guard Bob McCullough may be lost with a pinched nerve in his neck.

The Broncos have shifted Ray Kubiak from center to tackle, moved guard Jerry Sturm to center and installed rookie Pat Matson of Oregon at guard. John Hohnman will be at the other guard spot and Bob Breitenstein at tackle.

The front four also figures to have two youngsters with Max Leezow, a sophomore pro out of Idaho, holding one defensive end post while rookie Robert Young of Howard Payne figures to hold the other. The tackles are veteran with Ray Jacobs and Charlie Janarette.

City Power Winds Up Slate Today

Jacksonville City Power will wind up its regular Little Eight League schedule with a twin bill at Riverton this afternoon, starting at 1:30. The team will leave at 11:45.

By virtue of a twin loss to Taylorville last week, Jacksonville dropped to fourth place in the six-team league, now with a 5-8 record. Riverton is one game out of the lead.

City Power still has an excellent chance for a Downstate AABC Tournament spot. The tournament starts Monday night at Laphier Park in Springfield.

Springfield and Riverton are already in the tournament, so the next two finishers in the Little Eight will play in the double elimination affair. The two spots are between Taylorville, 6-7, Jacksonville and Decatur 4-9.

Baseball-Crazed Town Prepares For Mack Series

FARMINGTON, N.M. (AP)—Each year about this time, a malady strikes this northwestern New Mexico community of about 25,000 population. The citizenry becomes swept up in teen-age baseball fever. There may not be a city in the country of comparable size that can touch the fantastic craze for a youth baseball world series like Farmington.

Thousands of persons will jam a baseball park, which is better than many minor league layouts.

They'll be attending the ninth annual Connie Mack Baseball World Series starting Aug. 19. The double-elimination tournament among seven regional champions and a host Farmington team is scheduled to end Aug. 25.

A team from Portland, Ore., whipped a Long Beach, Calif., squad to win the 1965 tournament here.

It is no wonder the sponsoring American Amateur Baseball Congress, with headquarters in Battle Creek, Mich., wanted to come back again. Last year, more than 45,000 people of all ages saw the 14-game series in Babe Ruth Park.

The tournament realized more than $10,000 profit, the largest in history for the program for boys in the 16-18-year-old bracket.

At that, the attendance was less than for the Babe Ruth Baseball World Series in Farmington. More than 64,000 fans watched that tournament, with 8,325 piling in the 7,500-seat stadium for the championship game.

Already, more than half of the 3,500 reserved seats have been sold this year's Connie Mack series.

Matindale Takes Lead In Thunderbird Classic

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP)—Young per Montclair Country Club Bill Matindale soared into a two-stroke lead but felt the heat of a rallying Jack Nicklaus Saturday in the third round of the $100,000 Thunderbird Golf Classic.

The 2-year-old former Texas A&M athlete fired a six-under-par 68 for a 54-hole total of 207 over the 7,055-yard, par 72 U.S. Open course.

Nicklaus also cut out a 68 which placed him in a tie at 209 with Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., and 29-year-old Tommy Aaron.

Rudolph shot a 70, Aaron, coming from four shots off the second round pace, fired a 67 during a near perfect day on a course made easy by pin placements and shortened tees.

Like Matindale, Aaron has never won a tour event.

Bill Casper, the U.S. Open champion and year's leading money-winner, lost his halfway lead when he skied to a final round 75 for 214.

Arnold Palmer fought back with a sub-par 70 after appearing to have blown his chances, and was still in contention, tied with Casper and three others at 214.

Tied for fifth place at 211 are long-hitting Tom Weiskopf, with a 69, and Texan Jacky Cupit, with a 68.

At 212 were Julius Boros, the two-time U.S. Open winner, 68; Jerry Pittman, a club pro from Glen Cove, N.Y., who knocked in two eagles and tied the course and tournament record with a 65, and Miller Barber, 70.

Matindale, son of a lumber executive in Jacksonville, Tex., had eight birdies and two bogeys.

One of the most awesome exhibitions came off the explosive sticks of Nicklaus.

Jack chipped in from 35 feet for a birdie at the first hole, sank a 25-footer for another bird at the second and birdied five of the last nine holes.

Things looked bleak for Palmer when he took a double bogey on the first hole after driving into a fairway trap and hitting his second into a creek. But he sank putts of 18, 20, 35 and 30 feet for four birdies in a stretch of holes, starting at the eighth and he ran in one from 30 feet on the 18th.

NEW YORK (AP)—Chuck Hinton scored one run and drove in another while Steve Hargan limited New York to four hits as Cleveland defeated the Yankees 2-1 Saturday.

Fred Whitfield singled Hinton home with the winning run in the eighth inning, giving Hargan his ninth victory of the season.

Hinton had singled with two out and stole second before Whitfield singled him home.

Both teams scored in the sixth after Jim Bouton and Hargan had worked five shutout innings apiece.

Hargan scored Cleveland's run. He opened the inning by drawing a walk moved to third on a sacrifice and infield out and then came home on Hinton's single.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Infielder Ron Hunt of the New York Mets was fined an undisclosed sum Friday night by Manager Wes Westrum, who said that Hunt did "something unethical" when he threw his bat into the Mets' dugout.

Westrum said Hunt threw the bat in disgust, but "almost got a couple of people killed." The bat went into the dugout, scattering several players.

Hunt popped out in the fourth inning with two on and none out against St. Louis.

Westrum said he fined Hunt because similar incidents had occurred before.

"It's not only the bats," the manager said. "He's also thrown helmets and done other things. I talked to him last year when it happened. I hope this stops it."

Westrum refused to say how much he fined Hunt, although it reportedly was $100. The fine was the first by Westrum since he became manager last season.

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP)—Dennis Ralston and Clark Graebner won singles matches Saturday to start the United States with a 2-0 lead over Mexico in the Davis Cup American Zone finals.

A U.S. victory in the doubles Sunday could wrap up the championship.

Ralston, his big service booming when he had to have it, overpowered Rafael Osuna, 6-4, 2-6, 7-5, 6-1, in the second match.

The 6-foot-2 Graebner also cashed in on a superior service in downing Joaquin Loyo-Mayo in the five-set opening match, 6-0, 4-6, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3.

Graebner, like Loyo-Mayo, was playing his first Davis Cup singles match although they have been in doubles action.

Ralston and Osuna are Davis Cup veterans and the No. 1 players.

Gunderson Cops Ladies Golf Title

SEWICKLEY, Pa. (AP)—Scrambling JoAnne Gunderson Carner of Seattle, Wash., fought back after a shaky start Saturday, then outlasted Marlene Stewart Streit to win the USGA National Women's Amateur Golf Championship for the fourth time on the fifth hole of a sudden death playoff.

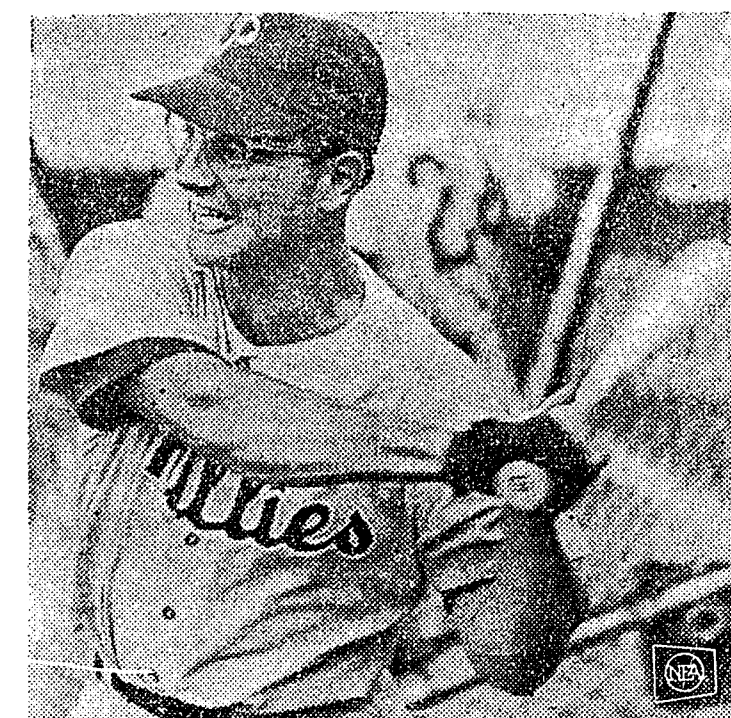

Mrs. Carner sank a two-foot putt to par the 41st hole and close out the match. Mrs. Streit took a bogey on the hole when her second shot from the rough struck a tree and glanced into a trap.

Mrs. Carner, who twice blew 3-up leads, evened the match at the 35th hole with a par when Mrs. Streit three putted from 32 feet for a bogey.

Mrs. Carner's booming drives constantly put her 20 to 40 yards beyond Mrs. Streit, a 32-year-old housewife from Willowdale, Ont. Mrs. Carner also turned in some of the best putting she displayed all week in adding the crown to those she won in 1957, 1960 and 1962.

Mrs. Carner had regulation rounds of 78-76 Saturday and Mrs. Streit shot 74-77.

Kording To Coach At Routt

The athletic program at Routt-Our Saviour's got a boost this week with the addition to the coaching staff of George W. "Willy" Kording Jr., of 288 Sandusky. Kording, currently employed at the Illinois Braille and Sight-Saving School, will coach the grade school basketball squad from November through February.

Kording, who graduated from Tallula High School in 1960, was a 4 letter-man at Illinois College in basketball and baseball, serving as captain of the basketball team and co-captain of the baseball line. He is a member of Sigma Pi society for men and was formerly president of Gardner Hall on the west-side campus. He graduated in 1960 with a bachelor's degree in history.

Last April, Kording secured his master's degree in rehabilitation of the blind from Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo, Michigan.

Palmer's second shot on the 440-yard, par 4 12th hole almost hit the green, then kicked into nearby water.

Before dropping a new ball, Palmer tossed it to his caddy, Steve Accolla. "Catch it, Steve," he said.

"I didn't want to catch it for fear of causing him a penalty," said Accolla. As he ducked, ball, bag, clubs and Accolla all went into the water.

"We went through a five-minute drying out process," said Palmer.

Did he help fish the caddy out? "I wanted to push him in further," Palmer grinned.

"He was nice about it," said Accolla, a receiving supervisor in a chemical plant when he's not caddying.

Trading Gilchrist: A Must For Denver

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP)—There is virtually no chance that fullback Conk Kilchrist will play for the Denver Broncos this season. But he could be a vital asset.

The way the situation now stands the Broncos must trade Kilchrist off the reserve list by Tuesday or they cannot use him this season. However, they can trade him at any time, even if the Tuesday deadline passes.

Asked what the chances were that the 250-pound fullback who in four American Football League seasons never has gained less than 900 yards on the ground, Coach Mac Speedie said sharply: "Nil. No one in our organization has heard from him. We don't even know what state or what country he's in. What we would like to do is trade him, but we won't trade him just to trade him."

The Broncos are trying to trade him for offensive or defensive linemen, and if they can accomplish that they apparently feel Kilchrist will have served his purpose.

Right now Denver is extremely short on linemen. All-League tackle Eldon Danenhauer has been lost for the season with a broken arm, and guard Bob McCullough may be lost with a pinched nerve in his neck.

The Broncos have shifted Ray Kubiak from center to tackle, moved guard Jerry Sturm to center and installed rookie Pat Matson of Oregon at guard. John Hohnman will be at the other guard spot and Bob Breitenstein at tackle.

The front four also figures to have two youngsters with Max Leezow, a sophomore pro out of Idaho, holding one defensive end post while rookie Robert Young of Howard Payne figures to hold the other. The tackles are veteran with Ray Jacobs and Charlie Janarette.

City Power Winds Up Slate Today

Jacksonville City Power will wind up its regular Little Eight League schedule with a twin bill at Riverton this afternoon, starting at 1:30. The team will leave at 11:45.

By virtue of a twin loss to Taylorville last week, Jacksonville dropped to fourth place in the six-team league, now with a 5-8 record. Riverton is one game out of the lead.

City Power still has an excellent chance for a Downstate AABC Tournament spot. The tournament starts Monday night at Laphier Park in Springfield.

Springfield and Riverton are already in the tournament, so the next two finishers in the Little Eight will play in the double elimination affair. The two spots are between Taylorville, 6-7, Jacksonville and Decatur 4-9.

Baseball-Crazed Town Prepares For Mack Series

FARMINGTON, N.M. (AP)—Each year about this time, a malady strikes this northwestern New Mexico community of about 25,000 population. The citizenry becomes swept up in teen-age baseball fever. There may not be a city in the country of comparable size that can touch the fantastic craze for a youth baseball world series like Farmington.

Thousands of persons will jam a baseball park, which is better than many minor league layouts.

They'll be attending the ninth annual Connie Mack Baseball World Series starting Aug. 19. The double-elimination tournament among seven regional champions and a host Farmington team is scheduled to end Aug. 25.

A team from Portland, Ore., whipped a Long Beach, Calif., squad to win the 1965 tournament here.

It is no wonder the sponsoring American Amateur Baseball Congress, with headquarters in Battle Creek, Mich., wanted to come back again. Last year, more than 45,000 people of all ages saw the 14-game series in Babe Ruth Park.

The tournament realized more than $10,000 profit, the largest in history for the program for boys in the 16-18-year-old bracket.

At that, the attendance was less than for the Babe Ruth Baseball World Series in Farmington. More than 64,000 fans watched that tournament, with 8,325 piling in the 7,500-seat stadium for the championship game.

Already, more than half of the 3,500 reserved seats have been sold this year's Connie Mack series.

RECEIVING — No game-breakers around, but fellows like Alex Hawkins and Red Mack have plenty of pep. Neal Petties, ex-Colt, looms as a developing split end, with Charley Casey of Florida to push him. Billy Martin, a local Georgia Tech product, is a young husky for tight end. RATING—B—

RUNNING — Strictly on the mediocre side, but ample in size. Perry Lee Dunn, Ernie Wheelwright are the first claimants. They can block O.K. Danny Lewis, Junior Coffey are in the next echelon. Notre Dame's Bill Wolski will probably hang on, but he's not big or fast. RATING—C guards Jim Simon and Dan Grimm, tackles Frank Lasky and Errol Linden have all been NFL regulars at one time or another. So has Ed Cook. Don Talbert, ex-Texas, has his offensive line is one area the Falcons don't stock much in the draft. RATING—C

KICKING — Bob Jencks had enough practice with the Bears to prove he can deliver his share of field goals. Billy Lohridge is just a so-so punter, but will probably hang on because he can do other things. RATING—B—

DEFENSE

LINE — Don't mention it. Ends Tim Powell and Bob Richards, tackles Chuck Sieminski and Guy Reese, plus Dennis Murphy and Roger Anderson, won't keep opposing coaches awake at night. They've even dredged up ex-Giant John Con-toulis for some exercise. This is one department that's bound to change when some other teams out. RATING—D+

LINEBACKING — A lot of shekels are invested in Tommy Nobis. The middle is all reserved for his affluent presence. He has a couple of good counters to work with, Marion Rushing and Bill Jobko. Andy Von Son and Ralph Heck lend a touch of depth. Could be best part of the club. RATING—B

SECONDARY — There'll be a procession through here until it settles down. Most likely early candidates are Jerry Richardson and Lee Calland on wings, with Ron Smith pushing, and Bob Sherman and Nick Rassas at safety. A rookie named Bob Riddle has also made a strong impression. Carl Silvestri could squeeze in. RATING—C

SUMMARY — The big debate concerning the Atlanta Falcons is their prospects for winning a single game this year. Every wing figures to be an upset. But that's how it goes with an expansion team. As a new coach, Norb Hecker will have to demonstrate infinite patience. PREDICTION—EIGHTH.

CLIFTON, N. J. (AP)—Light heavyweight champion Jose Torres defends his world boxing title here Monday night against Eddie Cotton in a match that might well be billed a battle of the ancients.

Torres is only a mere 30 but the transplanted Puerto Rican from Brooklyn is the oldest world champion in action today. This is a slender honor, however, because he's only about four months older than the lightweight champion, Carlos Ortiz.

Cotton is truly a legitimate ring antique. The Seattle veteran is 40 years old and is the oldest challenger currently in boxing.

The Monday fight will be nationally home televised on a special sports network beginning at 10 p.m. EDT.

The contest is billed for 15 rounds in the Las Vegas Convention Center but past records of both fighters indicate it won't last the distance.

Torres has scored 26 knockouts in 39 fights and has been stopped but once in the lone defeat of his career. This was a five-round knockout by hard-hitting Florentino Fernandez in San Juan, P.R., in May, 1963, when Jose was a middleweight.

Cotton, who began his professional career in 1947, has appeared in nations around the world and has been in at least 76 bouts. An aircraft toolmaker as an off-ring occupation, Eddie has stopped 31 opponents, lost 17 by decision and has been halted three times.

Cotton's credentials as the current challenger seem singularly unique. He has had seven fights in 1965 and 1966. He won three — once by a knockout; lost three — one by a knockout; and notched one draw.

Another six lightheights back in third place came Paul Mellon's Prides Profile with Wake Robin fourth, Boisana fifth and Bubbles O'Udora last.

The victory was worth $36,790. As the second choice she paid $7,600, $3 and $2,400. Lady Pitt returned $2,600 and $2,200, with Prides Profile $2,600 to show.

Lady Pitt, carrying topweight of 124 pounds and giving three to Natashaka, was timed in 2:04 1-5.

After the match Ralston said, "I always try to keep Rafe moving and never give him an easy point . . . Hitting lobs takes a lot out of a man."

Ralston said he thought Osuna came out tired after the intermission following the third set, but he thought Osuna "played better than I thought he would with so little play."

Osuna said earlier he had played only four times this year.

Nicklaus also cut out a 66 which placed him in a tie at 209 with Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., and 29-year-old Tommy Aaron.

Rudolph's shot a 70. Aaron, A&M athlete fired a six-under-par 66 for a 54-hole total of 207 over the 7,055-yard, par 72 U.S. Open.

coming from four shots off the second round pace, fired a 67 during a near perfect day on a course made easy by pin placements and shortened tees.

Like Martindale, Aaron has never won a tour event.

Bill Casper, the U.S. Open champion and year's leading money-winner, lost his halfway lead when he skied to a final round 75 for 214.

Arnold Palmer fought back with a sub-par 70 after appearing to have blown his chances, and was still in contention, tied with Casper and three others at 214.

Tied for fifth place at 211 are long-hitting Tom Weiskopf, with a 69, and Texan Jacky Cupit, with a 68.

At 212 were Julius Boros, the two-time U.S. Open winner, 68; Jerry Pittman, a club pro from Glen Cove, N.Y., who knocked in two eagles and tied the course and tournament record with a 65, and Miller Barber, 70.

Martindale, son of a lumber executive in Jacksonville, Tex., had eight birdies and two bogeys.

One of the most awesome exhibitions came off the explosive sticks of Nicklaus.

Jack chipped in from 35 feet for a birdie at the first hole, sank a 25-footer for another bird at the second and birdied five of the last nine holes.

Things looked bleak for Palmer when he took a double bogey on the first hole after driving into a fairway trap and hitting his second into a creek. But he sank putts of 18, 20, 35 and 30 feet for four birdies in a stretch of holes, starting at the eighth and he ran in one from 30 feet on the 18th.

2 Pioneer Families To Arrive Tuesday Seeking New Start

Two "pioneer" families will arrive in Jacksonville Tuesday night seeking a frontier of freedom. The story began in January when Ed McCurdy and Robert Hamm, members of the First Presbyterian church, suggested the possibility of re-settling Cuban refugee families here.

Rev. Dale Robb, pastor of the church, planted the thought with the Greater Jacksonville Council of Churches, and letters of inquiry were dispatched to the Church World Council in New York.

All was quiet for several months. Two weeks ago, the New York organization notified the local church group that two families were available for re-settlement here.

Tuesday night they will arrive in St. Louis and be brought here to live.

Grand Champion Raiser Scores Again At Fair

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Bo Buff Bradley of Avon, a 15-year-old who exhibited the grand champion steer at the Illinois State Fair two years ago, showed the grand champion steer Saturday in the exposition's junior division.

Bo Buff's entry, an 865-pound Aberdeen Angus named "Showdown," was judged the best of 367 steers entered in junior division competition.

The award automatically put Bo Buff and Showdown in Monday's competition for one of the fair's most coveted titles, the grand champion steer award.

Lorraine Malmen, of Orion, exhibited the reserve champion in junior division competition with a 920-pound steer named "Dud-Lou-Me-Grey."

The two steers were winners of the junior division class in their respective breeds. Kerry Tuttle, 18, of Arcola, exhibited the champion Hereford, a 910-pound animal named "Schneider," and also will be among those competing Monday for the grand champion honor.

Bo Buff is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Bradley, who raise Aberdeen Angus on a 333-acre farm near Avon. Bo Buff will be a junior this fall at Bushnell High School.

Junior livestock awards were the highlight of the Saturday program. Sunday is Veterans Day, when marching units will be judged along with drum and bugle corps.

Gov. Otto Kerner gave out honors Saturday and received some.

In dedication ceremonies at the women's activities building, Kerner handed out three awards for baking, saying, "All this is not new to me. I cook at home."

Baking winners who received ribbons from Kerner were Mrs. Julia Wenner of Staunton, Mrs. Ruby McKinley of Kenney, and Miss Opal Hayes of Franklin.

At the Boy Scout Village, populated by 1,200 boys in pup tents, they sang "Happy Birthday" for the governor, anticipating his 58th anniversary Monday. They gave him a red, white and blue cake. At an Indian Village he received a blanket.

Kerner lost an ice-cream cone dipping contest to Agriculture Director Robert Schneider, who stacked 14 dipperful on one cone. The governor piled up six. Hampshire sheep judges picked the champion ram from the entries of John Fagaly of near Fithian.

City Urban Renewal Approval May Come In Next Few Days

Jacksonville Urban Renewal Director John Pine expects the federal government to authorize a grant "almost any day" which will allow the start of the city's first urban renewal project.

Pine is waiting for authorization from the Housing and Urban Development agency (HUD) to begin work on a survey stretching from Independence to Chambers and from Church to Clay.

An application was submitted to Washington, D.C. from the Chicago regional office April 20 which seeks a $126,000 grant for the survey, Pine said.

Senate Approves Bill
At that time the 1966 appropriation had already been used up, but the next appropriation for 1967 was due to begin July 1. The United States Senate, however, only last Tuesday approved the bill covering urban renewal and various other agencies, such as the National Air Space Administration (NASA), and the Veterans Administration agency — a $14 (plus) billion bill.

"As far as we know locally, no city has yet received any urban renewal funds from this appropriation," Pine said.

Mayor Byron Holkenbrink and Pine are in contact every 10 days with Illinois office holders in Washington.

"HUD likes to work on all applications so all can be released at about the same time," Pine said. "When a Jacksonville group was in Washington in late June, they told us we might get approval in about 60 days, so we could receive word from Washington any day now."

Pine isn't yet certain that the Jacksonville application has been approved. Approval is received when money is allocated. "Nothing will start until we get a letter from the federal government saying that 'You are hereby authorized to incur costs. This will be our official notice,'" Pine said.

No Problems
The local urban renewal director doesn't anticipate any problems with the Jacksonville application, however, because application, which are forwarded by the Chicago office usually aren't rejected in Washington for technical or mechanical reasons.

The total cost for Jacksonville's first urban renewal project is expected to be more than a half million dollars. Besides $126,000 for a survey, actual project costs have been estimated at $420,000.

Pine said he wouldn't know until after the survey was well advanced where the first urban renewal project would be located, but he indicated that city officials are hopeful it can be in the downtown area, somewhere around the square.

No Local Cost
Pine said the urban renewal project won't cost the city any money at the local level because Jacksonville has built up "non-cash credits" equal to $1.25-million.

He explained that Jacksonville, as a city under 50,000 population, gets $3 from

Bigger Peek Into Privacy

Have you done anything you would just as soon keep to yourself?

Then let's hope you can. But don't be too sure.

For the fact is that as of right now you are of sufficient interest to your government that 20 U.S. agencies and departments may have taken the time and trouble to collect some sort of information about you.

And that isn't all.

The Bureau of the Budget is now proposing that a National Data Center be established to assemble all this miscellaneous information, feed it into a computer and end up with a complete, it's all-in-here dossier on you and your life for handy use by anyone who may have the "right" and the opportunity to see it.

Any way you look at it, this seems to add up to a startling invasion of privacy. And it is all the more alarming because some of the information on file about you may not have been obtained directly from you, or from undeniable facts about you, but from what other people have told government investigators about you.

Now, all such second-hand information may be absolutely true and unbiased. On the other hand, it may not. Whichever it is, there it is in the big, family-sized dossier.

And since you don't know what's in the file, or who may be seeing it, you, of course, have no chance to deny or explain it.

Perhaps you are so fortunate as to have no qualms about what anyone may know about you or your affairs, regardless of who he is, what his motives are or how private the subject matter may be.

But many of us are not so lucky. We have our little secrets that we'd just as soon keep secret.

The National Data Center, by greatly increasing the availability of such personal information, could go a long way toward putting private citizens and their private lives in a grand, governmental goldfish bowl.

This proposal ought to be side-tracked.

Five Years Of The Wall

The East German Communists are crowing on their side of the wall they built to split the city of Berlin five years ago this month. They have some reason to crow over their achievement. The wall has cut the east-to-west flow of refugees from a flood to a trickle. With a more dependable work force confined on the east side of the wall, the East German regime has been able to stabilize its economy.

Yet though the hated wall still stands after five years, and is even being made higher, it does not truly represent a victory for the Communist regime. For in the eyes of free men everywhere, and of those who yearn to be free, this ugly scar across one of the world's greatest cities is a testimonial to the repressive nature of rule by the Communists.

In a sense the people of West Berlin have become accustomed to the wall; at any rate, they live with it because they cannot do otherwise. But neither they nor others who enjoy the fruits of self-government, or who would like to, have forgotten that the wall is a confession of weakness. The Communists had to build it to keep people from deserting the grey ship of communism. That is the real message of the Berlin Wall on the fifth anniversary of its erection.

Dear Ann:

A Girl Named Duncan?

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: You had a letter in your column recently from a lady who claimed she could tell all about a person by hearing his first name. (Frank is sexy, Esther is stupid and cow-like, Albert is a jerk, etc.). Your readers might like to know there is a magazine called "Mother To Be And Infant Care" which offers a list of "neuter" names for the expectant mother who wants to settle on the baby's name before birth.

Some suggested names: Kimberly, Duncan, Cabot, Brooke, Tracey, Noland, Trevor, Udine, Wright, Vaughn and Bailey. Aren't they dillies? Sign me — DECISIONS! DECISIONS!

Dear Decisions: I don't mean to knock the magazine, but all those names sound like family names to me. I've always liked the idea of using a family name as a first name, but unless the last name goes with it — forget it.

No kid should be saddled with a handle like Noland Lefkovich or Trevor Pappoloulos.

Dear Ann Landers: Your column on names brought to my mind a true story. Maybe you'd like to share it with your readers.

A friend of mine named Joseph Kissinger got fed up with lame jokes about his name, so he went to court and changed his name to MacArthur, who happened to be his hero at the moment.

After a few months he became disenchanted with MacArthur and had his name legally changed to Williams. He got tired of people asking if he was any relation to "Soapy," so he changed his name — to Carter.

The jokes about the liver pills bothered him so again he changed his name — to Harrison. He pulled the court bit so often that his friends are going around asking, "I wonder who's Kissinger now?" — PAUL M.

Dear Paul: Now there's a knee-slapper if I ever heard one! Thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I just celebrated our fourth wedding anniversary. I should say I celebrated it by walking a sick child all night.

My husband was away on a fishing trip with his brother. Andy and I are both 22. I look like 40 and feel like 90. Nothing bothers Andy. He buys whatever he wants for himself and if the bills have to wait he couldn't care less. I haven't had a new dress since we were married. I

Coffee Break Makes Office A Real Home Away From Home

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It used to be that the American office employee who came to work late had no way to kill time on the job before leaving early for lunch.

Then someone invented the morning coffee break, and the problem was solved.

No history of U.S. business and how it grew will be complete without a chapter on coffee breaks.

Coffee breaks now often are held in company-sponsored lunchrooms, and here are some figures in the cast of characters you may be familiar with in your own office:

Genial George — No one gets more pleasure out of the morning break than the office toper. If you take a sip from his paper cup of cheer, you'll be cheered too. It has four big ounces of bourbon in it.

The Round Table — It's patronized by the fat stenographers. They gorge themselves on doughnuts, crullers and pastries so that they can go shopping during the lunch hour instead of wasting it by eating on their own time.

Suspicious Sid — He believes the management is trying to get rid of the staff by serving poisoned coffee, so he brings his own in a Thermos bottle.

Traitor Tom — He drinks his coffee alone in sullen silence. No one wants to sit with him because all are convinced he is a spy and gets paid extra by the front office for relaying disloyal gripes he overhears in the lunchroom.

Hapless Harry — He is a mechanical jinx. Every time he puts a dime in the coffee machine it breaks down. Harry then calls a one-man strike until the personnel director personally returns him his lost dime.

The Addict — He doesn't really like coffee, but can't stand the thought of going back to his desk. So he sits there and gulps cup after cup hoping it will give

Cease-Fire Is Favorite Red Weapon If They Are Losing

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — For two decades, the cease-fire has been a major communist military weapon.

A cease-fire, with the United States as moderator, enabled Mao Tse-tung's Communists to take over China. It gave them the time and the safety from attack they needed to arm themselves with weapons the Japanese surrendered at the end of World War II.

Mao's armies were militarily weak, had few arms and little ammunition. The Japanese were surrendering large quantities of weapons to anyone on hand. The Chinese Communists needed a breathing spell to get those arms to their scattered troops. The cease-fire gave them that period of safety. They kept the truce only long enough to finish the re-arming.

When they began to lose in Korea, the Chinese Reds called for truce talks. These talks halted the big U.S. drive north. The Chinese stalled while they built up their local forces, corrected their basic weaknesses in weapons and equipment.

This build-up meant that a resumed U.S. advance would have been much more costly. It put the United States in a weaker bargaining position, enabled Mao to put through an agreement so important he broke it openly and repeatedly.

Hanoi used the Laotian talks to strengthen its military positions. In South Viet Nam, a cease-fire would give the Communists a free hand to recruit and train additional troops and to infiltrate more arms and men.

Most of the Communist military organization is underground. Supply routes are secret. Open inspection would be like watching the Cosa Nostra and its supply lines with no undercover men.

A cease-fire couldn't stop Viet Cong assassinations, kidnappings and other terrorist attacks, now at the rate of 11,000 to 17,000 a year.

It couldn't stop Red guerrilla troops from attacking whenever they wanted. In every case, as in China, they'd claim the other side had started the firing.

The inspection teams the United States deployed in China after World War II didn't stop the Reds. Inspection teams failed in North Korea and Laos. The Control Commission in Viet Nam has set a dismal record.

There are thousands of Viet Cong pockets in South Viet Nam. Each would have to be policed with units acceptable to both sides. The Red members of each unit would bar visits to critical areas or stall them. By the time the inspectors arrived, what they sought to see would be hidden or moved.

The job would be like trying to keep track of smuggling in a state of 15 million if there were 200,000 smugglers, most of whom had a bevy of relatives; if every police smuggler-control team of two consisted of one policeman and one smuggler.

It staggers the imagination. Asian communist leaders brag about their cease-fire techniques. In private talks in China in World War II, some of these men were quite frank. In a war, they said, a man uses all the means at his command.

"We fight when we're winning," said one top Communist. "When things aren't going well, then we call for talks or a truce to give us time to consolidate our gains for another push later."

Dangerous Lawlessness Creeping Across Our Land

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A good proportion of the American people is hiding from some very unpleasant truths about it.

Far too often, public behavior of Americans is appalling. Many are openly and aggressively lawless. Others are basically lawless in spirit and, though they would not acknowledge it, have developed an incredibly high tolerance of crime and violence. Evidently they can feel neither shame nor shock.

Short of the grosser offenses against their fellow Americans, many have made trespass and other invasions of privacy virtually a way of life. They are arrogantly ill-mannered on the highway and in every public place. They are uncaring and indifferent toward the rights and needs of other human beings.

The courts of this country are currently embarked on a process of reinforcing shaky individual freedoms. But while they are about it, countless Americans are turning freedom into license.

They exhibit a contempt for authority which is destructive of freedom. They really do not think that any kind of hampering, uncomfortably, disagreeable law ought to apply to them personally.

In an age that is probing deep into the mysteries of human conduct, they have begun to convert explanations of misbehavior into excuses for it — as Chicago's scholarly police chief, O. W. Wilson, points out.

In a nation whose political system is founded on the will of the electorate, some Americans are pretty close to saying that there is no individual will and no personal responsibility. The offender is always the creature of forces.

"He came from a broken home . . . He was a deprived person . . . He was unloved . . . He blacked out."

Some probers into conduct seem to stop just short of arguing that crime is human and, hence, democratic.

Indeed, the ennobling cloak of the word "democratic" is today being thrown over all manner of licentious behavior. The word is being defined to mean:

or say anything I please, regardless of the consequences to others."

Any interference with such unbridled behavior is being promptly labeled in some circles as "undemocratic" and even "fascistic." Some of those brilliant young fools at Berkeley and other campuses argue that they are bound by no laws or rules they had no part in making. They accept no authority but their own constantly shifting opinion.

Some Negro leaders frankly justify lawlessness and violence done in the name of their rights. A few appear to contend they are above the law.

The most startling comment made recently in Chicago by Stokely Carmichael, hot-headed "black power" advocate and chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, was this:

"We've got to let them (the white community) know that when they arrest one of us in our community, we're going to move to disrupt this whole country."

The consequences of turning freedom into anarchy are written large across the face of this country — in shattering, death-dealing riots, in a rising crime rate that the most unemotional public authorities think spells crisis.

If it is the crisis they say it is, then the hiding from ugly truths cannot continue much longer.

The reassuring words "only a minority does these things" will no longer suffice. Misbehavior, up to and including the breaking of laws, is a commonplace in 1966 for many millions of Americans.

The numbers involved are so frightening. There is almost no place to escape the depredations. He who says the peril to a sane society is exaggerated is whistling past a graveyard loaded with people who thought "it can't happen to me."

One of the truly comic notions of the age is the idea the American people are constricted by overorganization. Beneath the top-heavy weight of big government, big business, big everything, millions are managing ingeniously to live nearly unfettered in increasingly dangerous and destructive chaos.

FINDING THE WAY

A Measure of Growth

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.

How seldom a person really changes! It's astonishing to see the rationalization, the little dodges, the excuses that shield us from confronting any radical change or maturing growth. As a matter of fact, all too many people never expect to change.

That happened to Jonathan Jones. He had thought of himself as a kindly, helpful and civilized gentleman. He would have denied the possibility of personal prejudice. Yet Jonathan came face to face with the predicament. He had gone to Israel with a study group. Listening to lectures, visiting in libraries, steeping himself in more than a casual look at a fascinating country, he felt a discomfort that grew daily.

It became a climactic situation as he recognized in himself an ancient anti-Semitism that shocked him. At that point, he could have decided to leave the situation unchanged. To have done that would have rationalized a compromise with ideals, a slow alienation from what he had really believed.

Instead Jonathan went through a shattering experience of coming to himself. Recounting the painful experience later, he could only say that it felt like being born again. He could never be the same again.

Jonathan is a kind of parable for each of us. It's easy to take a "love me or leave me" attitude. It's disturbing to confront a change or residence. It's more difficult to change one's mind. To acknowledge a wrong point of view and to rid self of an ancient wrong is like being born again.

Jonathan had a forerunner named Nicodemus. When Jesus suggested that he be born again, practical realist that he was, he looked astonished, asking how he could return to his mother's womb. Yet, somewhere along the way, Nicodemus was reborn, emerging as a new person. He was born again.

For all too many of us this is still an impossibility. We can't imagine it happening to us. A person can resist taking a fresh look at his life and habits of thought explaining himself as one who has convictions. Hatreds can be made to look like pieties. Either that, or he can bury the situation so deep within himself that he's shocked to meet himself.

How seldom a person really changes! Yet, when that moment comes, there is the pain of birth and the emergence of a healed human being.

That hope of renewal, regeneration and redemptive change is the hallmark of personal growth. It's an awakening to the wrong path taken, the wrong idea nurtured, the wrong dream loved.

That's painful. For birth is painful. To have recognized the possibility in one's self is, as Jonathan said, like being born again. To change is a crisis in self-esteem. It's the hopeful threshold of a new personhood.

Mature Parent Recognize 'Poor Mom' As Thirsty for Praise

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: As usual, we are spending my husband's vacation with his family. What gripes me about it is that it means no vacation for me. His mother cooks three big heavy meals a day; and as I'm the only wife in the family, I'm expected to clean up after her. She wears herself out with heavy baking and roasting that turns the house into an oven and uses up every pot and pan she's got. I'm in her kitchen for more than an hour after every meal.

ANSWER: You don't have to allow her to so destroy your vacation. From what you tell me, I expect that your mother-in-law is one of those "Poor Mom" cravers who must have their families' sympathetic admiration. By exhausting herself with cooking is the way she's been accustomed to getting it. So let's offer her another way to get it — one that will free you from all this kitchen after-meal labor.

Let's make a big collection of your husband's old shirts and ask her to turn their collars for him. It would give you your chance to say, "It's only fair for me to make the lunches and suppers if you're going to work so hard on Harry's shirts. Oh, I know I'm not in your class as a cook but he really needs them."

If you'll just stop being so angry at your mother-in-law, I bet you five bucks that she grabs at this new means of getting her daily quotas of "Poor Mom, there she is doing for others again."

In movies when we see a desert-lust, thirst - crazed person collapse at the oasis pool to gulp and wallow in its water, we understand his extremity. We've felt heat and thirst ourselves. But when we come up against someone whose emotional thirst compels her to gulp and wallow in family sympathy, we do not see her extremity. We refuse to see that she must have wandered through hot stretches of many inward deserts to have acquired such thirst for those "poor Moms." We just see her as a pain in the neck. There's only one reason for our clouded vision. WE ARE REFUSING TO REMEMBER OUR OWN THIRSTS FOR SYMPATHETIC ADMIRATION. We are refusing to remember those hot little deserts in which we all occasionally wander in doubt of our value.

Give this mother-in-law of yours all the sympathetic admiration you've got for her superior sewing competence. She'll be so grateful for this new means of acquiring her "Poor Mom" that she won't have to turn the house into an oven. Then you can produce your salads and sandwiches.

Keep Honey Covered

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q — I don't have much luck keeping honey once I've opened the jar. Please give me some advice.

A — Home economists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture give this advice about keeping honey: Store honey tightly covered, otherwise it may lose aroma and flavor. It may be stored at room temperature or in the refrigerator. The refrigerator is best for creamed honey, particularly if room temperature is very warm because it may partly liquefy if stored at too high a temperature. Honey syrup should be kept in the refrigerator tightly covered. Dilution with water or other ingredients might cause it to ferment at room temperature. Honey may darken or crystallize as it gets older but this does not injure it. Crystallized honey can be liquefied by placing the container of honey in a pan of warm water until the crystals disappear. If further heating is necessary, raise the container of honey off the bottom of the pan by putting a rack under it and place the pan over low heat. Overheating the honey may cause it to change color or flavor.

Q—What do I do to test ripeness of a cantaloupe?

A—First smell it. When a cantaloupe is ripe, it will have a distinctive cantaloupe aroma and a smooth stem scar. The blossom end will give slightly when you press with your thumb and the netting will be coarse.

Grain Reserves Down Due To Heat, Drought Through The Cornbelt

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Crop production this year may dip 7 per cent below last year's record high largely because of hot, dry weather. This does not mean there will be a food shortage, but it could bring higher farm and food prices.

Much of the reduction—forecast by the Agriculture Department Wednesday—would come in crops now available in ample reserve supply—enough to meet anticipated domestic needs and a fair level of exports.

But the prospective dip opens the door to a much larger crop acreage in 1967 to restore reserves that have been drained away by heavy foreign aid demands for wheat and record commercial buying of feed grains for expanding livestock economies abroad, especially in prosperous Western Europe.

The government already has announced 20 to 25 per cent increases in wheat planting allotments for the 1967 harvest. It also is expected to relax its limitations on acreages of feed grains—especially corn, barley and sorghum grains—in order to rebuild reserves.

Crops which, the department said, are indicated to be smaller than last year include corn, spring wheat, oats, barley, rye, flaxseed, sorghum grain, hay, sweet potatoes, hops, apples, dry peas, peanuts, potatoes, grapes, cherries, apricots and peaches.

Those expected to be larger are winter wheat, durum wheat, rice, dry beans, soybeans, tobacco, sugar cane and pears. The indicated soybean crop is a big disappointment. The government had urged increased planting to help meet rising demands at home and abroad for this versatile oil-seed crop. There had been talk of a billion-bushel crop. But, due to the hot dry weather, the department estimated the crop at 860 million bushels, up only slightly from last year's 843 million bushels. The acreage was up 7 per cent.

The indicated production of feed grains was 151 million tons 6 per cent less than last year. This is 15 million tons less than markets are using from the 1965 crop supply. Reserves could drop below 40 million bushels or more than 5 million bushels below the amount of wheat farm officials have said is needed for a safe reserve.

Morgan Youths Vie For Fair Laurels

As usual, Morgan county is well represented at the Illinois Junior State Fair.

There are fewer beef cattle from this county than normal, but considerably more hogs have been entered.

Ralph Romig, assistant farm adviser, is one of the adults in charge of the boys' division of the county building.

Don Bloomfield of the Berea Ag club has entered three milking Shorthorns in the dairy show.

Mike Kershaw of the North Side Seniors has two steers in the beef show — a Shorthorn and an Angus. Kenneth Rahe of the Victory Ag club will parade a Angus.

In the swine show Robert Armstrong of the North Side Seniors will have four Chester Whites, Jim Burrus, North Side Seniors, four Spotted Poles; John Potter, Lynnville Hustlers, four Durocs; Raymond C. Bloomfield, Berea, five Hampshire; Tom Burrus, Victory, four Yorkshires; Bob and Cindy DeOrnellas, North Side Seniors, seven Hampshires.

John Williams of Victory Ag club, three Hampshire sheep.

Tom Johnson, Berea Ag, will give his talk "I Believe in the Future of Farming" Tuesday.

Also Monday Sharon Baxter of the East Side Juniors and Wayne Bloomfield will compete for places on the state dairy judging team and Tom Burrus will try for the state livestock judging team Thursday.

Morgan county will be well represented in the hobby show, particularly in the electricity exhibit. The entries were shown at the county fair, and chosen by Judge Stanley Klaus for advancement to the State Fair.

Set Dates For 1967 Greene County Fair

CARROLLTON — The 1967 Greene County Agricultural Fair will be held July 24 through July 29, unless the Illinois State Fair dates are changed, according to plans made Friday evening at a meeting of the board of directors of the local fair held in the 4-H Club building on the fairgrounds.

Mr. Harold Handling of Carrollton was named superintendent of the Farm and Garden Department for the 1967 Fair succeeding Mrs. Mae Alfred, who resigned after a number of years of service in that department.

The annual financial report from August 1, 1965 to August 1, 1966 was read and approved and a copy will be released at a later date. In connection with this report a recommendation was made that there be an increase in the concession rent for 1967. The report of Mary's Bookkeeping concerning admissions at the gate and the grandstand was also read.

The group voted to have dances on the new concrete platform at the north part of the Art Hall and Donald Allen, president, who was presiding named the following committee for same, George Price Jr., chairman, Tom Ballard, Kenneth Edwards, Henry Steinacher, R. D. Lemons and Lloyd McLane.

Following discussion of a request from James Coomes, president of the Jersey County Fair association, it was voted to have a meeting of the Tri-County Livestock committee at the local fairgrounds Friday evening Sept. 9. Counties included are Greene, Jersey and Macoupin. Following this meeting a decision will be made concerning the limiting of the Junior Livestock Show to residents of adjoining counties only and not allow entries from any county as has been the procedure in the past.

Allen also discussed the Cal Scramble of 1966, emphasizing that correct entries are essential.

Guests of the Board Friday evening were Lynn Kinser, Robert Miller, Kenneth Harms and Arthur Eicken.

BRIMFUL and running over

By Jim Brim

Northern Wisconsin — It had been hot and dry here. Hot enough that the fishing was terrible. We got here, and it started raining — three days of it. About 3 1/2 inches in one day. I wish I could have brought some of it to west central Illinois a month ago.

As always "Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody can do anything about it."

We are able to control environment more and more inside building, and some day may be able to precipitate rain, but we must take the weather as it comes until such time comes.

Livestock is quite susceptible to temperature changes and to extreme wet or dry conditions. We are going to see and hear a lot more about environment control for livestock. As the benefits are made manifest we will see many producers turning to some method of controlling livestock environment.

As things like this arise we see more and more that specialization will continue in agriculture and size of enterprise will also continue to increase.

We have already had much of this as evidenced by those grain farmers who used to produce some livestock who now have none and concentrate on their grain increased the number of their livestock and raise little if any cash grain.

Changes occur so rapidly. I wonder what farming will be like in 20 years?

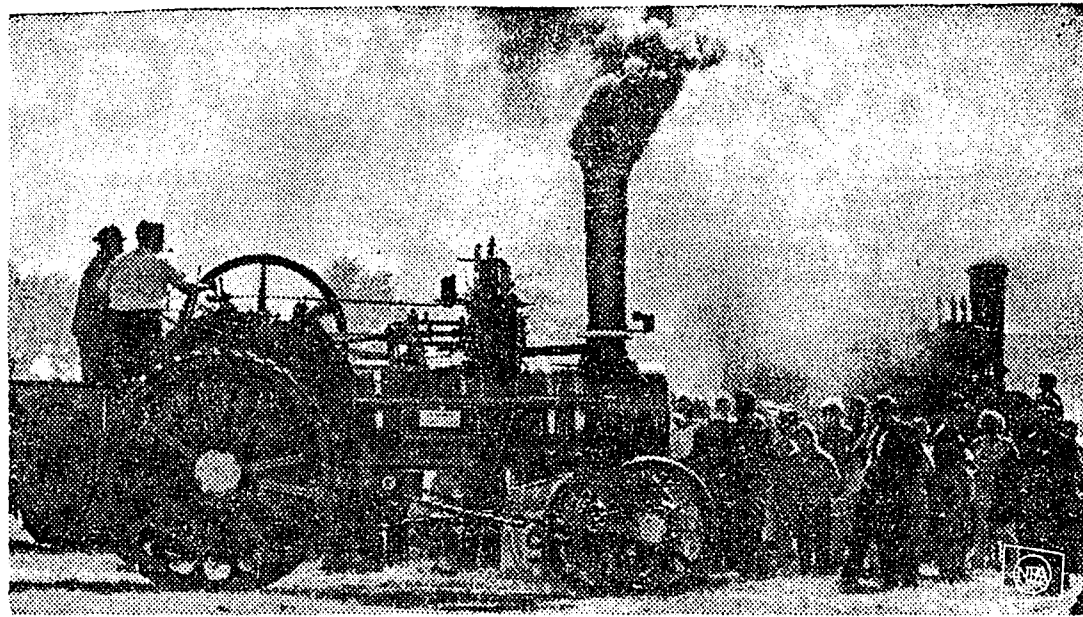

Do not become a slave to your occupation. There are many whose job is their whole life. Save some time for family fun. It's a good investment. You can't put your time into anything more valuable than your children.

Wherever you go people are there. Areas which ten years ago had hardly been seen by man are now occupied and commonly traveled. Areas which were once quiet vacation and wilderness areas are becoming crowded.

Yes, we have a population explosion and we are beginning to crowd each other. I hope we can slow down so we can continue to produce enough food and have area enough to live in.

Damaged Corn Crop Makes Just So Silage

The best use of drought-damaged corn on livestock farms is probably for silage, say University of Illinois livestock and dairy specialists. However, they advise farmers to delay harvest as long as possible to take advantage of a possible rain.

"Rain could help grain development and add to the crop's feeding value," explains extension dairy scientist Leo Fryman. "If it doesn't rain, the main feed value loss would be from the few leaves that may dry up and fall off."

The U. of I. specialists discourage the use of drought-damaged corn as green chop or for pasture since both methods increase the potential for nitrate poisoning.

"Some fields of drought-damaged corn may have an abnormally high nitrate content," says extension livestock specialist Harry Russell. "The greatest danger of nitrate poisoning in livestock comes from using the affected crop as forage immediately after a rain."

Oscar Mayer Acquires 20 Hog Stations

Oscar Mayer & Co., of Chicago and Madison, Wis., must intend to process a lot of hogs in the new plant the firm is building at Beardstown.

Last week the company announced the purchase of 20 livestock buying stations in western Illinois and eastern Missouri from the Hygrade Food Products Corp. of Detroit.

This is the old Midwest Order Buyers organization. Stations involved include the one operated south of Jacksonville, with John A. Vahle of 1628 Chilton street in charge. He has been there since 1953.

Other nearby stations purchased by the Mayer company are Chapin, Griggsville, Mt. Sterling, Rushville and Pittsfield.

Until the Beardstown plant goes into operation the network of buying stations will serve Oscar Mayer plants in Davenport and Perry, Iowa.

Richard Stones Named Typical Farm Family

The Richard Stone family of Springfield will be honored as the "Typical Farm Bureau family" during Farm-City Day at the Illinois State Fair Monday, August 15.

Stone, 31, operates a 900-acre grain farm in Sangamon county. His main enterprise is hybrid corn and certified field seeds.

A member of Farm Bureau since 1956, Stone is a member of the Illinois Agricultural Association's state marketing committee. He has served as chairman of the Sangamon County Farm Bureau Young People's committee, and has served on the State Farm Bureau Young People's committee and as a member of the Sangamon County Farm Bureau board of directors. In 1960, Stone won the state-wide discussion meet, a Farm Bureau Young People's activity in conjunction with the IAA annual meeting.

Stone and his wife, Carolyn, are the parents of three children, Andrew, 8; Amy, 6; and Anna, 4.

A graduate of Pleasant Plains high school, Stone obtained a bachelor of science degree in agricultural science from the University of Illinois in 1956.

Stone is a former Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county committeeman and a former soil conservation district director.

During Farm-City Day at the fair, Gov. Otto Kerner will take part in the ceremony honoring typical families representing the various farm organizations in Illinois. University of Illinois College of Agriculture Dean Orville Bentley will be the featured speaker. Farm-City Day is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Illinois. The Farm-City Day and Paul East.

Feed Grain Shortages To Harass Housewives

WASHINGTON (AP)—Housewives now paying higher prices for meat and milk may be paying even more for those vital farm products a year from now.

This prospect stems from a variety of factors: the sharply declining supply of livestock feed grains, the drought that has dried up thousands of acres of pastures around the nation, and the expected smaller crop of hay this year.

From the American consumer's standpoint, the disappearance of a surplus on feeds—corn, barley, sorghum grains and oats—has much darker aspects than the big decline in wheat stocks this year.

The wheat situation has attracted wider attention but in the long run the disappearance of feed grain surpluses could have much more serious repercussions on food supplies and prices.

A shortened supply of wheat will not be felt at home because any rationing of supplies will be limited to foreign areas, particularly those receiving U.S. food aid.

But reduced supplies of corn and other grains would have greatest impact in the United States—where the great bulk of them are consumed. Feed grains are the basic raw materials for producing beef, pork, milk, poultry and eggs.

This reduction in feed grain supplies his livestock producers through increased prices—that is, costs of producing beef catal minutes before entering the silo and keep livestock and people away from the silos for 10 to 14 days after filling.

Russell notes that corn silage made from drought-damaged corn will probably have less feeding value than normal corn silage. Therefore livestockmen should take special care in estimating the per acre yield of forage and grain so they can properly supplement the silage when it is fed.

Farmers can feed green chopped silage or other forages containing above-normal amounts of nitrate if they dilute the suspect forages with good-quality roughages and grain. Animals receiving high-energy rations can tolerate higher nitrate levels than those fed relatively low-energy roughage rations.

These gases are deadly and farmers should be careful in working around the forage. Always run the blower for several minutes before entering the silo and keep livestock and people away from the silos for 10 to 14 days after filling.

Russell points out that this nitrate buildup is temporary. The level will drop within a few days as the plants resume active growth.

Waiting two to three weeks before feeding the ensiled crop also will lower the nitrate content of the feed as nitrogen oxide gases form and escape from the silo.

Such cattle liquidation, with its consequent lower prices, would have a depressing effect on hog prices. This could be expected to lead farmers to lower hog production next year. This would be reflected in reduced supplies of pork—and higher prices for the vital product—in the second half of 1967 and possibly well into 1968.

Russell Morris In 'Cookout' Contest Monday

Backyard barbecuers who are looking for new cooking ideas to tempt the palates of summer guests can get some tips from the experts Monday morning at the Illinois State Fair.

That's the time set for the finals of the second annual Illinois Pork Cookout contest. It will be held in the street in front of the Fair's main grandstand, features winners of local cookout contests held earlier this summer in towns throughout the state.

Morgan county's entrant in the contest is Russell Morris, rural route 1, Jacksonville.

State fair visitors are invited to discuss cooking techniques and favorite recipes with the cooks during the contest. Recipes for dishes being prepared will be posted next to each contestant's grill. All contestants are men.

Each meat cut will be judged on taste, tenderness and appearance. Judges will also evaluate each contestant's cooking technique and showmanship ability. The contest winner will receive a portable TV set.

Judges include Miss Reba Stages, home economist with the National Live Stock & Meat Board; John Story, an IGA meat merchant; and Charles E. Flynn, author of a weekly cooking column in a Champaign newspaper.

The contest is sponsored by the Illinois Pork Producers' association, Swift and Co. and the St. Louis Independent Packing Co.

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

STOCKS OF CORN AND NEW CROP PROSPECTS SHRINK

Stocks of corn on hand on July 1 were smaller than the trade had expected. According to the USDA report issued on July 25, stocks on July 1 totaled 1,814 million bushels, 6 per cent less than a year earlier.

Corn stocks on farms were officially estimated at 1,347 million bushels, 5 per cent more than a year earlier. But other stocks were reported at only 367 million bushels, down 37 per cent from last year.

The figures indicate that 3.5 billion bushels of corn were used during the first three-quarters of the marketing year, or 11 per cent more than in the year before. This increase in use seems unusually large, since there was not that much increase in livestock numbers.

Some of the increase may be the result of poor quality of some of the 1965 crop, heavy field losses, and unavoidable errors in reporting.

Corn Crop Short. The 1966 corn crop will fall far short of the amount needed for domestic use and exports in the year ahead. However, the prospective crop plus the old corn on hand will be enough to prevent any shortage. But prices may average higher than in any year since 1955-56.

On the basis of July 1 prospects, the 1966 crop was forecast at 4.2 billion bushels, 1 per cent more than last year. But during July many areas in the southern parts of the corn belt suffered from severe drought and high temperatures. Central and southern Illinois were among the worst drought areas.

Northern Corn Belt Good. The northern half of the corn belt, including most of Iowa, has good to excellent crop prospects. Many communities can have a larger crop than last year. Higher yields in the north will offset part of the low yields in the south.

The prospect of a crop that is less than expected needs for feed, exports and industrial uses is not new. Production has been less than use in four of the past five years. The difference has been made up by using surplus stocks accumulated in previous years.

Surplus to Disappear. The carryover of old corn has been pulled down from a high of 2,008 million bushels in 1960 to 1,170 million last fall. The carryover on October 1 of this year is expected to be down to less than one billion bushels, probably around 900 million. About half of this amount could be used during the coming year to supplement the 1966 crop.

The carryover won't reduced much below 450 million bushels in the fall of 1967 unless corn prices go extremely high. One amount, which is about one-tenth of a year's utilization, would be needed for working stocks — to keep the "pipelines" full.

To Release 'Benhur,' A New Soft Winter Wheat, This Season

The Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station committee which has the responsibility of approving new crop varieties for release and also directing their initial distribution has approved another soft wheat for release to Illinois certified seed producers this fall.

The new wheat which will be allotted to certified seed producers this fall is Benhur which was developed through the co-operative efforts of the Purdue Agricultural Experiment Station and the Crops and Entomology Research Divisions of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The Benhur variety was derived from a cross of Knox 62 sib by an F1 plant from the second back cross of Kenya Farmer (spring) to Purdue 427 A1-1-3. Purdue 427 A1-1-3 was selected from a cross of Trumbull-Hope-Hussary by Fulhio-Purkof. The Hope-Hussary parent contributed resistance to loose smut, powdery mildew, and stem rust.

Kenya Farmer contributed resistance to stem and leaf-rust. Resistance to the race B populations of Hessian fly, from the Portuguese durum variety P. I. 94587, was contributed by Knox 62 sib.

Single plant selections were made in the F2 and F3 generations. The progeny of 97 plants selected in the F6 generation and judged for plant type and uniformity in the F7 of generation were bulked for the initial breeder stock.

Plant Characters
Benhur is a white-chaff, beardless (short awnleted) variety. Glumes and stems in some seasons show a slight black striping typical of the brown necrosis associated with the Hope resistance to stem rust. It causes no apparent injury to the plant.

The straw strength of Benhur is superior to that of Knox 62, Monon, and Riley and is almost equal to that of Redcoat and Reed. The new variety has about the same height as Monon and Riley — sometimes as much as 3 inches shorter. The straw is yellow, erect in growth habit with spikes held erect, curving slightly when ripe. Benhur has averaged about 2 days earlier maturity than Monon in Indiana trials.

Disease Resistance
Benhur is highly resistant to the new races of leaf rust that attack Monon, Knox 62 and Riley. This new variety is also highly resistant to stem rust, the only early variety resistant to stem rust.

Benhur is moderately resistant to the powdery mildew disease. It is highly resistant to loose smut under both natural infection and artificial inoculation. This new variety is moderately resistant to soil-borne mosaic.

Hessian-Fly Resistance
Benhur, like Knox 62, resistant to races A and B of Hessian Fly. This resistance provides good protection from races of Hessian fly now predominant in Indiana and the eastern soft wheat area.

The new Benhur wheat will be released under the new Release Policy which was announced by the University of Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station Committee in the fall of 1965. The first crops released under this policy were Wayne soybeans and Riley wheat. These releases were followed by the Amsoy soybeans and now the new Benhur wheat.

The committee had been studying the plans and release policies operating in a number of different states before announcing their program for

DAIRYING SHRINKING IN ILLINOIS!

CWJ Groups Meet For Coffee

The combined morning Christian Women's Fellowship Groups, namely Armstrong-Davis and Patterson-Watson groups, met Wednesday morning, August 10th in Fellowship Hall. Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Vernon and Mrs. Nichols, hostesses, served coffee, tea, rolls and cake. The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Russell Armstrong. Routine business was taken care of, announcements made and the various membership lists adjusted.

The used clothing drive pickup will be August 21 and members are asked to get their items to the church by the 20th. A representative from each group is needed to help Mrs. Don Zumwalt, service chairman, with the packing.

There were twenty-four members of the two groups present and 2 guests, both from the State of California.

Devotions were given by Mrs. Milton Edge, whose theme was from the book of Matthew.

Mrs. Alva Stainforth gave the lesson study, taken from the study book on Canada. A review of the July lesson was first given by one of the guests, Mrs. Sinclair, a member of one of the Christian Churches in Pasadena, California.

The groups conducted separate meetings to select meeting dates for the future meeting which will be held separately. The Armstrong-Davis Group will convene the third Tuesdays at 9 a.m. and announcements of the meeting places will appear in the Pastoral Helper. The September meeting, however, will be held following the CWF General Meeting on September 14th at the church.

NICHOLS PARK LADIES DAY GOLF NEWS

It was a real nice day for golf this past Tuesday, and we had a lot of fun playing "Bingle-Bangle-Bungle". This made you stop and think a little more before hitting your shots, or at least some of us tried, but didn't help. However, it must have worked for these gals. First Flight: Most Points — Fran Chumley. Second, Helen Little. Second Flight: Most Points — Lucille Eberhardt. Second Edna Greenier. The Championship Tournament is still in progress, and the winners for the second round were: Fran Chumley over Rigi Fay, Alpha Witham over Marge Howard, Lucille Eberhardt over Betty Price.

The third and final 36 holes of the Tournament must be played before August 23. Pairings are as follows: First Flight — Fran Chumley — Alpha Witham; Second Flight — Edna Greenier — Lucille Eberhardt.

The Committee is very pleased to see how well the tournament is progressing, and especially glad to know everyone is enjoying it so much. This coming Tuesday will be most 4's and 5's-regular play.

First flight players total their number 4's - second flight total their number of 5's. So girls, you don't have to be par golfers to win; in this instance it would be just as well to bugle a few holes. Until then... keep smiling.

Gum-Chewing Order Results In Sticky Mess

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A sticky situation has developed over a memorandum calling on employees in the North Carolina Highway Commission's purchasing division to stop chewing gum on the job.

One employee said Purchasing Agent W. G. Reeves had gummed up the works with his directive.

In calling for an end to gum chewing in his department, Reeves said: "I do not think this practice is conducive to good office etiquette. Your cooperation will be very much appreciated in the discontinuance of this practice immediately."

Reeves hinted his directive may have lost some of its flavor on the bedpost overnight. "I don't want to comment on this any more," he said Friday. "I don't want to create any dissension in the department."

A number of purchasing employees made it plain they did not like the memorandum. "Ridiculous," said one. "I'd rather fight than quit," commented another.

"I really need the gum to do my work," said a pretty secretary. "It relaxes me tremendously and I do a much better job when chewing."

"I've never heard of anything like this," said another stenographer who has been with the highway commission 20 years.

The commission's personnel office said there is no official policy on gum chewing.

"We leave it to the head of each division," a spokesman said.

Would a commission employee who refused to abide by the memorandum be dismissed? "I don't know," he said. "Nothing like this has ever come up before."

Those Cattle Drives Just how old Uncle Ches was puzzled us all. He punched cattle in Texas and the Rio Grande for at least five years, a d pointed cattle herds on the Chisolm Trail to Abilene and Dodge City several times. He never rode line or drag.

"I always was at the head of the herd, never ate dust," was the way Uncle Ches put it.

In his youth he ran a cross-roads grocery store in Kentucky and could have married the daughter, but "she had away too many airs for a man like me. She thought she was the No. 1 woman in the land."

After that my Uncle Ches headed north. He worked at different jobs.

In Pekin, Ill., he gave the head man at the distillery several points on how to make a better gin. At the Fox brewery in St. Louis he and his friend, Jake, solved a big problem. The company had bought a big fly-wheel, 60 feet in diameter, from the Krupp works in Essen, Germany, but it was off balance just a little and it knocked out the bearings. Teams of mechanical experts from all over America, and a five man group from Germany, tried to correct the wheel.

Jake and Uncle Ches didn't say anything. Finally when everybody gave up on the fly-wheel Jake looked at Uncle Ches and Uncle Ches look at Jake. Each pulled out of his right hand overalls pocket a piece of babbitt metal, weighing about an ounce and a quarter.

"Where would you put it," Jake asked Ches.

"Just exactly where you'd put it," Ches replied.

And It Worked When I was a kid my grand-father took me to St. Louis and we went to see the big fly-wheel at the Fox brewery, and it was running perfectly, just as Uncle Ches said.

One time somebody asked "Ches what was Jake's last name."

"Don't have the slightest idea. Only worked with him for five years, and he was a mighty fine man to work with. Right on the ball every minute. But as to his last name I'll have to pass. I never was the nosy type."

Other things my Uncle Ches did included a hitch at scouting for Gen. Grierson of our city. He told Custer to beware of Crazy Horse, and the fair-haired jerk didn't pay any attention to me, but everybody knows what happened at Little Big Horn."

He was also, for some time, a hard rock miner in a copper mine at Butte. He did some trapping and fur buying for the Hudson Bay Co. in Manitoba, but quit them on "a matter of policy. When he left the post an Indian maiden, very beautiful Indian maid five hundred miles, on foot, but was shut off at the border.

YESTER YEAR

My Favorite Uncle

Chester M. Hughes, my favorite uncle, couldn't stand a windbag.

"I've got no use for a guy that talks," he said, with a firm voice and harsh brow. "You can't talk much without spreading scandal or stretching the truth."

At that time he was the constable and night watchman in Mt. Pulaski, Logan county, Illinois.

He was a good looking man, 6'2" inches tall, weight 170 lbs., dark brown wavy hair, very small feet - 6 1/2 size - a wide smile and dancing blue eyes.

How old he was nobody knew. He would never say. But through listening to him we learned that he had lived a rather checkered career.

From Old Kaintuck He was born in Bourbon county, Kentucky, and "cut my teeth sitting on the thump box of a hillside still."

In his more jovial moments he claimed that he held the horse of a revenue officer who was about to descend into a ravine and arrest some moonshiners. The revenue officer said he would pay him a dime. My Uncle Ches said he wanted his money in advance, "because you plumb ain't coming back."

His adventures and travels were varied. For instance, he helped build the Eads bridge over the Mississippi at St. Louis. He got interested one day at something at knocking-off time, the floating crane man didn't notice that he was still on the superstructure, and Uncle Ches was left on the steel to spend the night.

He had to sleep that night on an eight-inch beam, 65 feet above the Mississippi river. "Never had a better night's sleep in my life," he said later. "I scratched my initials on the beam with a tenpenny nail and if you don't believe what I'm telling you, you can look it up. My initials are still there."

"Boy, was I hungry that morning!"

HUMORS of the day

August, 1866

Among the advertisements, a week or two ago, in a daily journal, appeared the following: "Two sisters want washing," and "A spinster, particularly fond of children, wishes for two or three, having none of her own, nor any other employment."

An Irishman, on being told to grease the wagon, returned in an hour afterward, and said, "I've greased every part of the wagon but them sticks the wheels hang on."

"Madam, your boy can't pass for half fare; he is too large," said the conductor of a very slow railway train. "He may be too large now," replied the matron, "but he was small enough when we started." The conductor caved in, and the boy passed for half fare.

As long as a miser lives his money-chest is bound to be heir-tight.

HORSES ON THE TABLE — The hippophagists carry their fondness for horse-flesh to an extreme. According perhaps they will soon have their horse served up ala carte, with horse-beans, not to mention horse-radish, which of course it must require even more than beef. The dessert which follows the favorite repast of the horse-eaters will certainly not be complete without horse-chestnuts.

—Frank Leslie's Newspaper.

CAN HAPPEN TO ANYONE LUSK, Wyo. (AP) — Richard Pfister, the president of the Wyoming Highway Commission, slipped up — just like lots of others.

He forgot to renew his driver license before the expiration date. A friend had to drive him to the highway patrol office so he could take an examination to qualify for a new license.

—Cecil Tendick

FOREIGN

August, 1866

The deaths from cholera in London during the past week were ten hundred and fifty-three.

The French Cabinet has addressed a note to the Prussian Government, pointing out that the great changes in the political organization of Germany render it necessary that the French frontier should be rectified by an accession of territory to France, so that the frontier should be the same as in 1814.

The Berlin Zeitung says the changes which have taken place in Germany are of a national, not an international character, and convey no menace or danger to France.

It is announced that the plans for the confederation of the British Provinces of North America have been definitely arranged by the Government.

A bill is under discussion in the Prussian Chambers relative to the annexation to Prussia of Hanover, Hesse, Nassau, and the City of Frankfurt.

The Emperor Napoleon is reported to deny having entertained any design of annexing Belgian territory to France.

DOMESTIC

August, 1866

It is safe to say that the wheat crop of the United States in the current year, 1866, will be the largest ever harvested.

Of the corn and pork crops it is yet too soon to speak with certainty. Thus far, both promise excellently; but early frosts may blight too confident expectations, and the most that can safely be said is that the promise is good. Finally, of our greatest staple, cotton, the prospect is fair.

In a speech at Philadelphia, made by Governor Orr, of South Carolina, said "I now to-night renounce the right of secession, the right of an appeal to arms, and acknowledge the supremacy over me of the Government of this Union."

The number of deaths in New York City last week was 946, the same as in the previous week. Of these 250 were from cholera, and 198 of the cholera deaths occurred in the public institutions.

Dispatches from St. Joseph state that the Indian depredations in the vicinity of Fort Laramie and on Powder River are assuming a most determined and warlike character. The Government cattle at the fort have been run off, and on Powder River three forts have been burned by the Indians and thirty-five men killed. They had also been serious fights and destruction of wagon trains near Fort Reno and Fort Conner.

One hundred and eighty-three thousand bushels of corn have been distributed among the destitute in Georgia. About 40,000 people were the recipients.

The published report that Negroes have been kidnapped on the coast of Florida and sold to Cuba is denied by the Navy Department. In consequence of the reports the Department directed Commodore Winslow, commanding the Gulf Squadron, to make a thorough investigation of the matter, and he reports that the statements are without the slightest foundation.

John Ross died in Washington on the night of August 3, aged about 75 years. He was the Chief of the Cherokee Nation for forty years and his remains will ultimately be taken to Cherokee Country for interment.

Jungle Highway

A 1,550-mile highway, 26 miles longer than the Alaskan Highway, is being slashed out of dense Amazon jungles to open up Peru's far east, long isolated by the rugged Andes from the narrow coastal strip where most of the country's population lives. Named the "Carretera Marginal," the road is costing some $90,000 a mile, financed in part by the Peruvian government and part by U.S. AID and the Export-Import Bank. It is expected to pay for itself many times over, opening up one of South America's richest agricultural regions and providing cheap land on a gigantic scale for Peru's impoverished farmers.

A wide, new bridge replaces a ramshackle old structure, left, across a jungle river. Heavy machinery had to be ferried from the Atlantic 1,500 miles up the Amazon River system to the jungle construction sites.

The road will bring new importance to small settlements previously dependent upon river traffic. Rich crops of bananas, other crops, vegetables, coffee and rubber are expected to multiply.

Japs Hope To Place Satellite In Orbit

TOKYO (AP) — His first rockets were so tiny that they were nicknamed "Itokawa's pencils."

Prof. Hideo Itokawa of Tokyo University and Japanese missile technicians were forced to watch the United States and the Soviet Union get a head start in the space age. Allied occupation authorities prohibited the manufacture of rockets in Japan.

When the occupation, and the ban, ended Itokawa began experimenting with pencil rockets less than nine inches long. His tests had more the air of a man playing with toys. But that was 250 rockets and 10 years ago.

Now Japan's technicians are well advanced in the business of rocketry. They have great hopes of making Japan the fourth country in the world — after the United States, the Soviet Union and France — to place a satellite in orbit with one of its own rockets. The first Japanese space vehicle could start circling the earth next month.

Japan's space program is pegged to peaceful research but it has political and military implications that undoubtedly have led the government to push it.

With Japan renouncing the use of nuclear weapons, the program gives this country a chance to demonstrate to the world that it is no less a modern power than neighboring Communist China with its nuclear bombs.

The rocket development obviously gives Japan the potential to deliver a nuclear warhead should it ever decide there is a need for an atomic arsenal.

Space exploration in Japan is supervised and subsidized by the state. But rocket development and testing for peaceful purposes have been almost exclusively the work of Tokyo University's Institute of Space and Aeronautical Science.

Itokawa, who has written scholarly articles on the manufacture of violins as well as missiles, is a central figure in the university program. The professor, 53, is a giant in Japan's aeronautical world. He served as an engineer at the Nakajima Aircraft Company which made most of Japan's World War II planes. In 1948 he became a professor in Tokyo University's engineering department. Rockets he designed were sold to Yugoslavia and Indonesia.

His institute has announced plans for a test flight this fall of a Japanese-made four-stage rocket called a Lambda-4S. It is expected to reach a height of 200 miles or so.

"Japan's rockets are finally entering the four-stage era aimed at launching a satellite," says Itokawa.

The projected Lambda-4S — to go up sometime in September — will carry a titanium globe, 18.7 inches in diameter with a cone containing measuring instruments, as its last stage. This object will weigh 84 pounds. It is possible it may go into orbit.

However, the placing of such a satellite into orbit, officials say, would be incidental to the main purpose of the flight, which they describe as a test of a position control device.

Japan's space development program is a shoe-string operation compared to the money spent in the United States, the Soviet Union or other countries for such projects.

The total cost for all Japanese space projects last year was about 3.6 billion yen — $10 million — of which $6.8 million was spent by Itokawa's institute. Its annual budget was only $1 million six years ago.

Institute officials say the low cost is due to the use of Japanese-developed solid fuel instead of more expensive liquid fuels for the rockets.

The government's Science and Technology Agency also has a modest program of its own. So far it has launched 14 two-stage rockets, using both solid and liquid propellants.

Japan's Defense Agency is developing short-range interceptor type rockets — the only rocket program for outright military purposes.

TOURIST BEATNIKS

ATHENS (AP) — Athens City Council has proposed that the Greek government require all foreign visitors to Greece to have at least $200 on arrival.

The proposal was made in an attempt to curb the recent influx of beatniks and cashless undesirables.

Here is a hand which caused quite a stir some 30 years ago. The excitement had nothing to do with the actual result. South went up with dummy's queen of hearts at the start. Then he thought a long while before he led a club, finessed his queen, laid down his ace of clubs and continued with his last club to knock out East's king.

East returned a heart. South won and thought some more. Finally he led the jack of spades, overlook with dummy's queen after West played low and ran off the nine tricks for his contract.

The first discussion concerned South's club play. If he had held the first club trick in dummy he would have been able to make game without risking the spade finesse but he would have gone down a lot if West had held the king of clubs and returned a spade after taking it.

The real excitement started when East suggested that his partner could have opened a spade and set the hand. South replied that no lead would have beaten him. East was skeptical and offered to bet. South took the bet and won.

Take a few moments now and see if you can figure out how South would make three no-trump against that spade lead.

Here is the play. He wins the first spade with dummy's queen and promptly cashes his ace. Silly? Not exactly! He discards his ace of hearts on the ace of spades. Then he leads the jack of clubs and lets it ride. Two more club leads take care of East's king. Finally South leads his eight of hearts. The queen of hearts will now be a sure entry to dummy and South winds up with two spades, one heart and six clubs.

Church Group Sets Clothing Collection

The summer collection of clothing and blankets for Church World Service will be August 20 and 21, according to an announcement by Mrs. C. G. Eggenberger, local chairman.

"The churches of the Jacksonville area gathered 2,636 pounds of clothing and blankets in the May collection," stated Mrs. Eggenberger. "Jacksonville serves as a collection point for both Morgan and Scott Counties and all churches in the area are invited to participate."

The collection center is the Centenary Methodist Church, 331 East State street, southwest door in the rear. Arrangements have been made to keep the room open and staffed Saturday, August 20, from 9 to 12 a.m. and 1 to 4:30 p.m. and Sunday, August 21, from 1 to 4:30 p.m.

It is asked that clothing be packed in sturdy medium-sized cartons, tied or taped securely and marked with the name and address of the contributing church.

Church World Service can buy blankets for $3.00 and donations for this purpose are urgently needed. Other special needs at this time include men's work wear and shoes and lightweight clothing for children. Contributions for packing and handling are also needed at the rate of 10¢ per pound for clothing and 25¢ per blanket. Any checks should be made out to Church World Service.

The Rev. Lowell H. Brown, director of Illinois Church World Service office in Springfield, expressed the hope that Illinois churches will continue their generous support. According to Mr. Brown, these collections are part of a cooperative ministry to disaster victims and impoverished people in more than 30 countries.

Greek villagers, for example, victims of a disastrous earthquake in February, 1965, received warm clothing and bedding within hours of the loss of their homes. The eruption of the Taal volcano in the Philippines last fall left eight hundred eighty-five families homeless. They were supplied with bedding, mats and household supplies.

According to Melvin B. Myers, Material Aid Program Director for CWS, the requests for 1966 for clothing and shoes only total almost 6,000,000 pounds and best estimates nationwide from CWS offices is some 5,000,000 may be collected this year.

Cisne Does Well In Golf Tourney

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Jacksonville's Jim Cisne fired an eight over par 79 here Friday to wind up with a 305 total in the National Jaycee Tournament, good for 27th place in the original field of over 250 entrants.

Cisne, who moved into the national tourney via his third place finish in the Illinois Jaycee tournament, recorded rounds of 81-73-72-79 for his 305 total.

An Atlanta, Georgia product, Dave Barnes, won the tourney

by an eight stroke margin.

Cisne was one of the 100 young men representing 48 states and two foreign countries who survived Wednesday's cut to move into the championship flight class. None of the other Illinois entrants survived the cut.

His Wednesday and Thursday rounds of 73 and 72, respectively, were among the best turned in by any of the participants, as very few par or sub-par scores were recorded on the monstrous Segfield country club championship course.

Pairings Set For Zone Play

CLEVELAND (AP) — A pair of 6-foot-2 power hitters, Dennis Ralston and Clark Graebner, will play singles for the United States Saturday against Rafael Osuna and Joaquin Loyo-Mayo of Mexico in the American Zone Davis Cup tennis final.

Drawings made Friday send Graebner against 5-foot-6 Loyo-Mayo in the opener of the three-day competition. The second match Saturday has Ralston and Osuna, both veterans of Davis Cup play, renewing a long rivalry in which Ralston has held the upper hand.

A doubles match, for which the two captains have not yet named their teams, is scheduled for Sunday. On Monday two more singles matches complete the play, with Ralston opposing Loyo-Mayo in the first match and Osuna against Graebner in the finale.

Each match counts one point, and the first team to accumulate three points wins the Davis Cup. The match will be played in the United States in the first two days of play. U.S. Capt. George MacCall of Los Angeles appeared pleased but would say only that "it really makes no difference to us."

BOSTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski lined four straight hits, scored three runs and drove in a pair Friday night, helping the Boston Red Sox to a 13-9 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Yastrzemski had three singles and a double before being called out on strikes while facing southpaw Mickey Lolich, the fifth Detroit pitcher, in the seventh inning.

The Red Sox scored in every inning except the fourth in posting their fifth triumph in six games.

Every Red Sox starter except the pitcher hit safely. Bob Tillman had a homer and two singles, George Scott a pair of run-producing singles and a sacrifice fly and Don Demeter two run-scoring singles.

Boston capitalized on a pair of errors by Detroit first baseman Norm Cash for two unearned runs in the third and three in the sixth.

Don Wert led the Tigers' attack with a pair of doubles and a pair of singles. Jim Northrup had two doubles and a single.

New Wrestling Coach Named To WIU Staff

MACOMB, Ill. — Robert L. McMahon, 28, of Columbus, Ohio, is the new head wrestling coach at Western Illinois University. The announcement concerning McMahon was made today by Dr. Harry Fritz, athletic director at Western.

McMahon, a former varsity football player at Ohio State under Woody Hayes, is considered to be one of the nation's outstanding prep wrestling coaches. He has coached at Worthington (Ohio) High School for the past three years where his teams lost only three dual meets in as many seasons.

Wrestling teams coached by McMahon have finished no lower than third in a district including 40 schools. Two of his teams ranked second in district competition. McMahon's 1965 team won the C. B. L. conference title. His 1966 wrestlers placed seventh out of 340 schools in the final Ohio rankings. During the past season Worthington won four major tournaments. McMahon has been voted the outstanding wrestling coach of the Central Ohio Coaches Association.

McMahon, a native of Marion, Ohio, is a graduate of St. Mary's High School where he lettered in football and basketball. He attended the University of Dayton for one year before transferring to Ohio State. He played a defensive end position for two years on the Buckeye grid team before graduating in 1961. He received his M. A. degree from Ohio State in 1965.

The newest member of the enlarged Western coaching staff will also serve as assistant freshman football coach.

GOOD OLD DAYS

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Floyd Patterson was relaxing on a couch talking to one of the old-time boxing reporters.

Naturally, the old timer couldn't help comparing the former stars to those of today.

Floyd listened politely. During the conversation, a fly buzzed by. Quickly, Patterson reached out and captured it.

"Not bad, Floyd," the reporter said. "But Young Griffo used to do it better 50 years ago. He used to win bets that he could catch flies with just his thumb and forefinger."

Floyd smiled. "It merely denotes progress," he said. "It proves that the flies are faster these days."

Killebrew Powers Twins' 6-2 Victory

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL (AP) — Harmon Killebrew's third home run in as many games, a two-run blast in the first inning, keyed Minnesota's 6-2 victory over Kansas City Friday night.

Minnesota tacked on two more runs in the second on pitcher Jim Perry's double and Friday night.

Killebrew's 25th homer capped a three-run Twins first-inning burst against Athletics' starter Paul Lindblad, now 4-5. It came after Zoilo Versalles doubled and Tony Oliva singled to drive in one run.

Philadelphia Eagles

OFFENSE
PASSING—Eagles are really sold that Norm Snead, who came strong in second half of '65, is the greatest thing since Mr. Kleen. The tall qb still isn't the most mobile man, but his arm is unquestioned. It's still King Hill and Jack Concanon for the backup posts. RATING—B

RECEIVING—Pete Retzlaff comes off the greatest year of his distinguished career to operate at tight end again. Now young Ben Hawkins could provide the needed deep balance if he edges out Ron Goodwin for flanker spot. Ray Poage, backed by Fred Hill, suffices at split spot. RATING—B

LINE—Two prize draft picks, Randy Beisler and Gary Pettigrew, could wind up as the ends. That's where the openings are, though Floyd Peters must prove his knee operation won't slow him up. He was outstanding last year until he hit the operating table. John Meyers figures to be the other tackle. Frank Molden could be general swing man. RATING—C

SECONDARY—There's no leader like Don Burroughs used to be, but the class didn't drop when Irv Cross was traded because Aaron Martin looks like a natural at one corner job. Nate Ramsey, the other half-back, Al Nelson and Joe Scarpati round out the pass defense perimeter, with Ron Medved, a good-looking rookie, as a swing man. RATING—C+

SUMMARY—The Eagles are respected for their scoring potential, but there's still doubt they can hold off the other team's offense enough times to produce a scoring combo. In fact, to be truthful, there's some doubt of the coaching quality measuring up to the talent—at least, that's the way opposing teams think. PREDICTION—FIFTH.

CHILDRESS RETIRES FROM PRO FOOTBALL
ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals announced Friday the retirement of fullback Joe Childress, whose entire 10-year career in the National Football League was spent with the Cardinals.

Timmy Brown
RUNNING—There's no better all-around threat in game than Timmy Brown, who really doesn't get due credit because he hasn't been with winner. Earl Gros complements him perfectly at fullback with his size and speed, and if he falters, Tom Woodeschick is ready and, above all, willing. RATING—A LINE—Coach Joe Kuharich claims he has the best unit in league, intact from last year. Anchored by Jim Ringo at center, with Ed Blaine (a good one), Jim Skaggs at guards and towering Bob Brown and Lane Howell at tackles, Brown could well be the greatest offensive lineman in league. Couple of kids, Ray Rissmiller and Bruce Van Dyke, could help in depth. RATING—B+

Red Hot Sox Claim 8th Straight 1-0

CHICAGO (AP) — Two Wild pitches by Dean Chance allowed Pete Ward to score the only run of the game Friday night and Tommy John pitched a four-hitters giving the Chicago White Sox a 1-0 victory over the California Angels.

It was the eighth straight victory for the streaking White Sox. And their 21st triumph in 30 games since the All Star break.

Ward opened the White Sox fifth with a single, one of three hits Chance allowed. He moved to second on a ground out and went to third on a wild pitch.

John drew a base on balls and then the fourth ball to Don Buford was another wild pitch, Ward scoring.

John struck out seven, boosting his record to 11-6. It was his third straight victory. Chance's record is 8-14.

NEW YORK (AP)—Gary Bell got late-inning relief help from Bob Allen and Luis Tiant and earned his 13th victory of the season Friday night as the Cleveland Indians edged the New York Yankees 3-2.

Bell was working on a four-hitter and leading 3-0 with two out in the eighth when three straight singles by Horace Clarke, Mickey Mantle and Joe Pepitone gave New York its first run. Roger Maris tagged Allen for another run-scoring single but Jake Gibbs bounced out ending the rally. Tiant pitched the ninth.

The Indians gave Bell a quick lead in the first inning, Yankee starter Al Downing walked Leon Wagner and Chuck Hinton on full count pitches with one out. After a force out, Fred Whitfield singled Hinton home.

Rosedale Kathy Cops Colt Stakes At State Fair

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Rosedale Kathy captured the Illinois State Fair colt stakes' filly division opener of the harness racing program Friday in a raceoff over Portia Queen.

Driver Wilbur Rathgeber plotted the bay mare to take the lion's share of the $11,475 purse and the Chicago Downs trophy. Portia Queen took the first heat in 2:09.2 but Rosedale came back in 2:08.2 and then 2:09.2, and the raceoff.

It took another raceoff to name a winner in the second race for the Washington Park trophy in the state fair colt stakes for three-year-old pacers. June Miss bosted Po'Boy's Queen after Po'Boy's Queen took the first heat in 2:04.2.

June Miss won the second heat 2:02.3. The raceoff time was 2:05.1 and the purse was $12,400.

Near Met captured the Capitol City trot in a photo-finish from Speedy Mark.

Veteran driver Joe O'Brien of Shafter, Calif., shoved the Chicago horse in front by a nose in 2:02.4. Speedy Mark had taken the first heat in 2:04.3 and Near Met won the race since it registered the fastest heat.

MISERY IS—Alderman Dean Strubbe cleans the front end of the car in which Mayor Byron Holkenbrink and party rode in the parade which opened the 1966 Illinois State Fair Friday. The car stalled, caught fire, and spouted water from the radiator. Mayor Holkenbrink, in the background, inspects the damage.

Jacksonville Group Has Trying Day At State Fair Opener

Although the sun shined brightly, it was "one of those days" for Mayor Byron Holkenbrink when he led a Jacksonville delegation to the opening day of the 114th Illinois State Fair in Springfield Friday. Mayors from throughout central Illinois went to the fair Friday at the invitation of Springfield Mayor Nelson O. Howarth. They participated in a parade beginning at 11 a.m., but most didn't see the fairgrounds gate until nearly 1 p.m. Some said they felt like Moses trying to get to the promised land. The parade was halted several times in the hot sun. But the mayors, almost to a man, remained cheerful. In the opinion of some, Mayor Byron Holkenbrink provided the spirit which allowed many other mayors to keep their composure. Holkenbrink refused to be daunted, although the car in which he was riding overheated, flooded, stalled, caught fire, and spouted water from the radiator like a geyser. Holkenbrink, who was investigating the difficulty, and Alderman Dean Strubbe, who had come to the Mayor's aid from a second auto, were generously spattered. Mayor after mayor passed the stalled auto. Each mayor had some comment which seemed appropriate to the situation. Members of the Quincy Shrine "Skeeter Patrol" offered rides to passengers in the Holkenbrink auto, a red convertible supplied by a local dealer. All offers were refused, the car finally started, and the Jacksonville delegation continued to the fair—although by this time they were no longer members of a parade. "Dan, we do pretty good getting into jams, don't we?" Holkenbrink asked driver Dan Lahey, a city alderman. The Jacksonville delegation finally caught up with the parade before entering the fair gate—in time to see Shelbyville Mayor Leorne stalled in his auto. Members of the delegation left Jacksonville from the Holiday Inn here Friday morning at about 9 a.m. They were Mrs. Juanita Slagle, whose husband is a member of the Morgan County Cavaliers, a motorcycle club which also represented Jacksonville; Alderman and Mrs. Dan Lahey; Alderman and Mrs. Dean Strubbe; and Mr. and Mrs. James Malone. Malone is president of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce. Members of the Morgan County Cavaliers appearing in the parade were Frank Slagle, Mr. and Mrs. John Mullens, Robert Lasley, John Hartsock, Harvey McGlasson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Driver Jr., and Frank Shafer. Crowds thronged the parade route, especially in the downtown area of Springfield. All mayors, floats, high school bands and marching units were reviewed by Gov. Otto Kerner in front of the grandstand. With a snip of a ribbon, Kerner opened the 1966 Illinois State Fair for its annual 10-day run. The temperature hovered near 80 under bright skies as Kerner formally launched the exposition. Officials predicted the fair would be the biggest in history. Eight members of the Green Berets stood with heads bowed behind Kerner while two clergymen recited a brief prayer. After Kerner cut the ribbon, he climbed into a convertible and headed a mile-long parade from the front gate to the grandstand. The Kerner auto was preceded by the Staunton High School band, winner of a national award in high school band competition. In a break with tradition, the fair was officially opened at 4 p.m. instead of 9 a.m. as in recent years. But that didn't keep thousands of youngsters from

Havana Attorney Nominated At Demo Convention

BEARDSTOWN—Kenneth Lemmer, a veteran Havana attorney, was nominated Friday as Democratic candidate for circuit judge in the 8th district. The nominating convention was held at noon at the Mallard Inn near here. Republicans will name their candidate in Havana Saturday. The 8th judicial district is composed of Cass, Brown, Mason, Menard, Adams, Calhoun, Schuyler and Pike counties, and the nominated candidates of both parties will seek election Nov. 8 to fill a vacancy on the circuit bench caused by the retirement of Judge Maurice Barnes of Havana. Adams county, with 32 votes cast under the unit rule, held the deciding power at the convention. Lemmer's home county of Mason had 8 votes. These counties were pledged before the convention. Votes for other counties were: Pike 12, Brown 4, Calhoun 3, Schuyler 5, Cass 8 and Menard 8. Neither Pike nor Brown county delegations appeared and Schuyler had but 3 delegates on hand. Judge John Reardon, the district's chief judge, and Richard Sholz, both of Quincy, are the other two jurists in the district panel. Lemmer was the only candidate nominated.
